'More concerned with discrimination against blacks'

Women's group fights Stevens' nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Organization for Women is asking President Ford to withdraw the Supreme Court nomination of John Paul Stevens because he said he would be "more concerned" about discrimination against blacks than against women.

Stevens, who is returning for further testimony today before the Senate Judiciary Committee, told the panel Monday that blacks "are a more disadvantaged group" than women.

The committee and the full Senate are expected to approve Stevens' nomination to the high court.

His testimony led NOW President Karen DeCrow to issue a statement saying, "NOW is disgusted at this blatant example of the white male power structure pitting women against minority males and making us all scramble for the crumbs of power."

Ms. DeCrow, who prefers that designation, said, "The NOW board is profoundly shocked that President Ford is not able to see the signficance not only of not appointing a woman to the bench but of appointing a man who is so against women's rights that he does not even understand the issues of civil rights for women in 1975."

Stevens also told the committee Monday that he believes in equality of the sexes. But he said he is not sure the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution would accomplish much beyond the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment, "aside from its symbolic value."

Stevens also said he is against putting any litigants, even victims of past discrimination, in a favored class. Instead, he testified he felt "my primary obligation is to deal with litigants impartially."

The issue of "reverse discrimination" was raised by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said he thinks that in the civil rights area courts have recognized that simply striking down discriminatory laws is not enough.

Kennedy said they frequently have gone beyond that to require affirmative action, like school busing, to remedy the effects of long patterns of discrimination.

He wanted to know if Stevens, now a judge on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, was "sufficiently concerned" to feel that judicial action of that kind is necessary.

Stevens told him that in many cases affirmative action by the courts is necessary, but he added that "these things really depend on the facts in a particular situation."

Stevens said he did not want to give Kennedy the impression that "I would place certain litigants in a favored class. I would not."

Kennedy said he hoped Stevens would show "some sensitivity to this particular kind of problem.

"If you want the record to read simply that you are going to apply the law equally to all citizens, then that's the way it will have to stand."

Stevens replied, "I would be proud to have the record stand that way."

State doctors poised for walkout

SCHOOL SAVED The Silverado Elementary School east of Santa Ana was threatened for a time, but saved by firefighters through backfiring. The school was evacuated as flames moved in its direction. The blaze was expected to be contained today after charring more than 1,700 acres. The fire destroyed five structures, including two homes. However, there were no injuries.

Angry over new malpractice law in effect Friday

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's new medical malpractice law takes effect Friday, but no celebrations are planned.

Instead, an insurance company is planning a huge rate increase, thousands of Southern California doctors are getting ready to walk out and trial lawyers are preparing to file suit against the law.

That suit may succeed in overturning at least one key provision of the law, state Insurance Commissioner Wesley Kinder said in an interview.

The measure was passed during a special session of the California Legislature which ended Sept. 12. By law, it takes effect 90 days later.

Kinder said the bill eventually could cut malpractice insurance premiums by 30 to 33 per cent from what they would have been without it. But he said its $250,000 limit on awards for pain and suffering may be vulnerable.

"It seems to be a denial of equal protection," he said. "It applies to only one class of plaintiffs. If I'm injured in an auto accident, the sky's the limit, but not in a malpractice claim."

The politically powerful California Trial Lawyers Association, which fought the bill unsuccessfully in the legislature, is getting ready to battle it in court.

"We are seeking the proper case," said President Elmer Low.

He said attorneys' groups are challenging malpractice laws in many of the 22 states which have enacted them. In Idaho, he said, a trial court recently overturned a law limiting malpractice awards to $150,000.

About 9,500 Southern California doctors are awaiting Kinder's decision, expected early next week, on a 486 per cent premium increase by Travelers Insurance which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Many doctors have threatened to withhold all but emergency services if the increase stands. A slowdown already has begun in some areas, similar to actions taken by many California physicians earlier this year in protest over soaring malpractice insurance rates.

The new increase would raise annual premiums for doctors in the highest-risk fields, such as neurosurgery, to more than $36,000. Kinder challenged it as excessive and is reviewing the company's defense of its figures.

Whatever his decision, he said, doctors are likely to be unhappy.

Besides the $250,000 ceiling, the bill shortens the malpractice statute of limitations, limits attorneys' contingency fees and adds a minority of nonphysician members to a strengthened state Board of Medical Examiners. The idea is to cut insurance company losses by curbing multimillion-dollar awards for noneconomic losses, reducing the number of suits years after treatment and cracking down on the few doctors whose frequent malpractice cases are paid for by the entire medical profession and its patients.

Admissions are normal in valley

Valley hospitals all report that "admissions are normal at this time."

Spokesmen for Pomona Valley Community Hospital, Park Avenue Hospital in Pomona, Doctors Hospital at Montclair, Chino General Hospital, San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland, and San Dimas Community Hospital all said this morning that they are operating at a normal capacity for this time of year.

In addition, Calvin Good, administrator at Park Avenue, said he had spoken with a number of doctors representing several hospital staffs and that "none plan to refuse to admit patients at this time."

Officials at Queen of the Valley Hospital and Inter-Community Hospital at Covina were not available for comment this morning, but both switchboards reported activities were normal in their hospitals.

Two suspects held

Pomona man shot in dispute

A Pomona man, shot several times Monday night during a dispute at 2241 S. Powers St., was reported in serious condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The victim, David Kirsch, 34, who lives at the Powers Street address, was wounded in the head, back, chest, hand and leg, police reported. Authorities said, however, that the chest wound was the most serious and involved Kirsch's right lung. He was being cared for in the hospital's intensive care unit today.

The shooting occurred just before 8 o'clock. Three hours later police arrested two suspects and booked them on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. They were Carl Francis Robinson II, 18, and a 17-year-old youth who was not identified because of his age. They were arrested in the 800 block of E. Grand Avenue in Pomona.

Police reported that the shooting climaxed an argument which concerned an earlier dispute. The weapon used was believed to have been a .38-caliber revolver.

2 men dressed as women rob beauty salon

Two men wearing wigs, padded bras and capris, robbed the Foxy Lady Beauty Salon at 1342 N. Towne Ave. in Claremont Monday afternoon.

The men, both six-footers weighing just under 200 pounds, entered the place just after 3 o'clock, showed a pistol and demanded money. They took $86 from the cash drawer and the purses of owner Anne Pat Sacco, 28, and hairdresser Nancy Taylor Daniels, 34, before shoving the women into a restroom at the rear of the shop. There they tied the women's hands with strips of cloth and left them inside the room.

Police reported that in addition to the cash, the robbers also took credit cards from the victims' purses.

Both men were described as blacks. The wigs they wore were dark-brown and shoulder length. One man carried a black handbag and an automatic pistol. Both men were in their late 20s or early 30s.

The victims were in the restroom about 10 minutes before they were able to free themselves and call police.

Gov. Brown 'too busy' for Rockefeller's L.A. session

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The governors of three states and three U.S. territories planned a day-long meeting today with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to discuss domestic policy.

But the host state governor, Democrat Edmund Brown Jr. of California, said he was too busy to meet with Rockefeller.

At the same hour Rockefeller set his meeting at the Los Angeles Convention Center, Brown slated a meeting in his Southern California office a dozen blocks away with doctors who have threatened to strike next Jan. 1 over expected increases in medical malpractice rates.

Brown's spokesman, Bill Stall, said the governor would not personally attend Rockefeller's "Public Forum on Domestic Policy" because he "felt there wasn't much that could be contributed or learned in the very, very brief time" alloted for the session.

The Rockefeller meeting is the last of six regional sessions headed by the vice president, who plans to present recommendations next week to President Ford on proposals for economic recovery and possible reforms of federal progams.

The governors of Washington, Arizona, Hawaii, American Samoa, Guam, and the Trust Territories of the Pacific all were slated to testify.

Jack Veneman, a former California state assemblyman who is now special counselor to the vice president, said testimony from the Los Angeles session and earlier meetings in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Florida, Colorado and Texas will be summarized for Ford next week.

Veneman said he would not speculate on specific recommendations that might come out of the sessions.

Long-distance rescue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Whitzman of Seattle, talking long-distance to Lee Bellman in Los Angeles, thought Bellman was kidding when he abruptly ended the conversation with "I've gotta hang up. We're being robbed."

Whitzman, of the Seattle-based Washington Quilt Co., tried to call Bellman at the company's Los Angeles branch again Monday. He got no answer, then telephoned Los Angeles police.

Police went to the company's downtown Los Angeles offices and arrested three men after a tense confrontation in which the trio allegedly held five employes hostage for a brief period, authorities said.

The men attempted to flee up a freight elevator, authorities said, but they saw officers climbing to the second floor and reversed the elevator.

A man later identified as Percy Starks, 32, of Los Angeles, then surrendered. But the other two men, identified as Paul Williams, 21, of Hollywood, and Adair Singleton, 22, of Los Angeles, continued to hold hostages.

Poverty more dangerous than nuclear plants, says Teller

SEATTLE (AP) — Poverty is more dangerous than nuclear plants and that is one point which environmentalists miss, says the man known as the father of the hydrogen bomb.

"One environmental question is more important than all the rest put together," Dr. Edward Teller told a news conference Monday.

"That is pollution by poverty. That pollution kills. That pollution generates hatred. The environmentalists fight the wrong pollution."

Teller, 67, a University of California at Berkeley physicist, said no person has been injured by the nuclear nature of atomic power plants.

"Nuclear reactors are safe," he said. "Poverty is dangerous. I am afraid of hatred. We must do something about the causes of war. The instruments of war we cannot abolish."

Teller criticized consumer advocate Ralph Nader as "an instant expert." Nader has crusaded against construction of nuclear power plants, saying they are unsafe and uneconomical.

"I have not found any evidence of expertise in Nader," said Teller. "...What he is really expert in is his appeal to the fear of people."

Teller appeared at the University of Washington to deliver a special lecture.

A.L. board drafts equal job rights plan but doesn't find it very equal

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondant

"If we could hire a black woman, who is a disabled veteran of two world wars and whose primary language is Spanish, we might be able to comply with" federal edicts on equal employment, an Alta Loma school trustee said Monday night.

Earle Anderson made his admittedly exaggerated statement as board members listened to administrators unveil a five-year program to balance the district's employment rolls by race and sex.

Plans approved by trustees now will be sent to San Bernardino County legal authorities to determine if they comply with a myriad of federal guidelines laid down by Washington bureaucrats implementing the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Trustees said that to comply with the 11-year-old act, they must violate its provisions. They cited provisions which forbid denying anyone services from public accommodations, business or schools on the basis of race religion or creed. But recent school busing edicts and other similar court decisions are handed down solely on balancing such public facilities on the basis of race, religion, creed or sex in violation of the same act, they said.

Trustees in principle adopted a five year goal they said they will attempt to reach by the end of that period.

Basic problem facing Alta Loma Elementary School District is the balance of sexes and not racial in the predominantly middle class white district.

Supt. Floyd Stork said all three principals in the district now are men while the ratio of women to men teachers in grade schools is about 70 to 30 per cent in favor of women. Stork said on the junior high school level, the men-women ratio is about equal.

In other action the board heard a reading and mathematics achievement report which shows the district to be above state averages. Trustees also approved a bond-state loan election statement to be included in the pre-election statement mailed to voters before the March 4 polling.

Next board meeting is slated for Jan. 5 at Alta Loma Junior High School.

S.B. County takes over drug program

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County has canceled its contract with the West End Council for Human Services (formerly West End Drug Abuse Council) effective Jan. 1.

Cancellation was effected by a unanimous vote of the Board of Supervisors Monday.

Andrew Robertson, director of the county Mental Health Department, said the county would take over administration of the methadone services being carried on by the council, after the first of the year.

The county will continue to offer these services at the same location, 209 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario, Robertson said.

This action will save county taxpayers $11,000 during fiscal 1975-76, 10 per cent of the budget, according to Robertson, and at the same time it will allow the county to increase the methadone treatment slots in the West End from 150 to 165.

Robertson told supervisors that administration of the West End center would be combined with the staff administering a similar center on Waterman Avenue in San Bernardino. He said treatment slots at that center could be increased from 150 to 175.

"We will run the methadone services out of the medical department of the county Department of Mental Health," Robertson explained.

The only changes will be at the top, with centers operated in the same way at the same places for a more efficient service.

"It is not our intention to run our health services in-house," said D. L. Hansberger, chairman of the Board of Supervisors. "This is not a forerunner of the board's intent to pull in other programs."

Robertson agreed. "That is not our intent either," he explained. "In fact, we are expanding the number of our contracts all the time."

Hungerford eyes shorter council term

Claremont City Councilman Frank Hungerford, hesitant about seeking re-election, has taken out nomination papers for a two-year term and cleared the way for Councilman Dick Newton to seek one of two four-year terms of office up for grabs.

When Councilman Gene R. Block quit because he was moving out of town, Newton was appointed last July to sit on the council until the March 1976 election. The remaining two years of Block's unexpired term would be decided by the voters.

Hungerford, elected to the council in 1972, said that he "can see my way clear for doing a good job for two more years. Four years is too far to foresee what business commitments and added responsibilities I might face."

Clark Hungerford has retired from the insurance business he shared with the city councilman, thereby forcing a decision on his son's part as to whether he can find time to handle the business and also the council job.

When he learned of Hungerford's decision, Newton took out nomination papers for a four-year or "long-term" seat on the council.

Ontario historic program slated

The Ontario Historic Landmark Society will hold a public meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 300 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario.

Society president Michael Kent Murphy will give a 20-minute slide presentation on points of historical interest in Ontario.

The slides will focus on the oldest building in Ontario, the Grand Palace, built in 1886 at the corner of Euclid Avenue and Main Street. Afterward those who attend will be given a tour of the second floor of the old building.

Enrollment to close at Poly

Cal Poly Pomona will accept applications for admission for the 1976 winter quarter through Wednesday. The new deadline represents an extension from the published quarter application deadline of Nov. 14. This deadline does not apply to extension and other programs of continuing education at the university. The winter quarter begins on Jan. 5.

Applications for the spring quarter 1976 are still open.

Forum to mull new public health law

The new public health law, the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, will be discussed at a public meeting Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in Pitzer Auditorium, Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The act, known at PL 93-641, represents an effort to lay the necessary base for future enactment of national health insurance. It combines comprehensive health planning, regional medical programs and the Hill-Burton Act into one overall administrative program.

The purpose of this law is said to be "to facilitate the development of recommendations for a national health planning policy, to augment areawide and state planning for health services, manpower and facilities, and to authorize financial assistance for the development of resources to further that policy."

Speakers at the Wednesday panel will be Ron Dowd, director of program planning and research for the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services; Larry Gower, executive director of Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Los Angeles County; Dennis Moriarty, assistant director for health facilities planning for the Hospital Council of Southern California; and, as moderator, Steven Toth, human resources coordinator for Tri-City Mental Health Authority.

The public meeting is being sponsored by the district advisory council of the Pomona Health Services District, the community services program of Tri-City Mental Health, Pomona Valley Community Hospital and the City of Pomona.

Invitations have been extended to city and county officials, school administrators, health council representatives, physicians and other concerned persons.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Villa murder trial delayed

The murder trial of Valenin F. Villa, 21-year-old Chino resident charged with killing a Pomona woman almost a year ago, has been continued to Dec. 30 in Pomona Superior Court.

The continuance was granted by Judge Robert M. Takasugi because the defense attorney is engaged in a trial elsewhere. The Villa trial is scheduled for Takasugi's court.

The defendant was charged in the fatal shooting of Barbara J. Rosas, 21, in her apartment at 1403 S. Palomares St. He also is charged with attempting to murder her friend, Jesse M. Perez, 20, at the same time. Perez, of Pomona, was wounded in one arm and was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Villa is free on $10,000 bail while he awaits trial.

Garcia, Chino planner, seeking council post

Pete Garcia, chairman of the Chino Planning Commission, has announced his candidacy for the seat on the City Council being vacated by Edward Lynch.

He promises to "work with others to solve our common problems with a minimum of tension and cost to our taxpayers."

Garcia has served on the Planning Commission since May, 1970 and was elected chairman of the panel this year. Prior to that he was vice chairman for two years.

"I want to be involved more directly in managing the growth of the city of Chino," said Garcia. "We have a unique opportunity to insure that Chino grows without sacrificing interests of our present citizens."

He stated that he is well-qualified to succeed Lynch on the council. "Five and a half years on the commission have given me a clear understanding of the day-to-day problems of city government."

Garcia added that, "Based on this experience, I know that solutions to difficult problems do not emerge suddenly nor do they come about by individual champions motivated by self interest. Rather, solutions . . . come about through hard work and cooperation with our city officials . . . and input from the citizens of the community."

He has operated a family fee business for 25 years. Garcia is married and has two sons. He also is a member of the Chino Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, Our Lady of Guadalupe Church and the EC Club.

Bureaucrats and high paying jobs: a 600% increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many federal bureaucrats are overpaid because they are in pay classifications higher than those justified by their jobs, the General Accounting Office says.

This practice accounts for much of the 600 per cent increase in payroll costs since the classification system began in 1949, a GAO report said. A copy of the report was obtained Monday.

"Managers have inflated position descriptions, pressured classifiers to overgrade positions and have been reluctant to downgrade overgraded positions. In addition, some agencies have failed to insure adequate control over classification practices," the GAO says.

The report said that in 1949 the average white-collar government grade was GS5, paying between $3,100 and $4,225, depending on length of service.

The average grade now is GS7, paying from $11,046 to $14,358, the GAO said.

The report made no estimate of how much the practice is costing the taxpayers.

"Although many GS positions are overgraded, the extent of overgrading is not known," the report said.

However, it quoted a 1971 estimate by the Office of Management and Budget that each one-tenth increase in grade average cost $175 million at 1971 pay and benefit levels.

The GAO said it reviewed classification practices in several federal programs and audited 101 positions that appeared to have suspicious classification. Of those 101 positions, "we considered 74 overgraded," GAO said.

"Because of the long-existing pressures on the classification system and some agencies' weak controls, we are not sanguine that there will be an imminent change in classification behavior. People are people," the report said.

The GAO said, "The problem warrants considerably more management attention."

The congressional accounting agency also called for "strong, emphatic presidential support" for a drive within federal agencies to reverse the trend toward overclassification.

Reinecke to try comeback?

Faces mountain of legal fees as U.S. court of appeals overturns conviction

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, free of his perjury conviction, faces a mountain of legal fees and a decision on whether to try a politcal comeback.

Reinecke said Monday night that he was "not closing the door" to the idea of again running for office, but he said he wanted to wait awhile before making a decision.

"Before making a decision like this I would want to look around and talk to a lot of people," he said in a telephone interview from his ranch in the Sierra foothills. "It won't be my decision alone."

Reinecke, who lost the Republican gubernatorial primary last year after he was indicted, said he still has about $95,000 in legal fees to pay off.

Reinecke was convicted in July 1974 of lying to a U.S. Senate committee investigating the circumstances under which International Telephone & Telegraph Co. promised to partially underwrite the 1972 Republican National Convention.

He was given an 18-month suspended sentence following the verdict. He resigned his post shortly before the sentence was handed down.

But the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington overturned the conviction Monday on the grounds that the committee which heard Reinecke's testimony did not have enough members present.

Reinecke said he cried when he learned of the ruling in a telephone call from his wife. "I was sort of stunned," he said. "It was a very emotional moment for me."

The decision did not discuss the question of whether Reinecke lied to the committee, but Reinecke said he felt vindicated by the ruling.

He said that the appeals court had simply agreed with one of the first points in his appeal and had not taken up other contentions.

"There was no point in going further," he said after discussing the decision with one of his lawyers. "It was just simply a matter of not wasting time."

But asked if he would have liked to have a decision that touched solidly on the issue of guilt or innocence, Reinecke said: "I suppose. Yes. I would have to say that. I know very well I was not guilty."

Reinecke says he plans no further legal action. "The case has been decided," he said.

In its ruling, the appeals court said it found "convincing" Reinecke's argument that the conviction should be overturned because only one senator was present at the hearing.

The prosecution tried to show that the committee had voted that one senator constituted a quorum.

But the court disagreed, saying: "The competence of the tribunal must be proved as an independent element of the crime. If competence is not shown, the crime of perjury is not established, regardless of whether the witness relied on the absence of a quorum."

Reinecke's indictment and conviction followed his appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee and his testimony about when he told then-Atty. Gen. John Mitchell of the ITT offer.

He testified that he had not informed Mitchell of the proposal until after the Justice Department abandoned an antitrust suit against ITT.

But he later said he told Mitchell about the offer in a telephone conversation before the suit was dropped.

Reinecke said that he thought he had been asked if he had discussed the offer during a meeting with Mitchell — not if they had talked about it over the telephone.

Reinecke was a Republican congressman when then-Gov. Ronald Reagan selected him in 1969 to replace Robert Finch as lieutenant governor. Finch had left Sacramento to join the Nixon administration.

Reinecke rose to become a favorite of conservative Republicans and at one time led Controller Houston Flournoy in public opinion polls before last year's primary.

After his indictment he continued to campaign but lost to Flournoy. Flournoy was then beat by Democrat Edmund Brown Jr.

Reinecke retired to his ranch after the primary and worked on his appeal and a book about his case entitled "So Help Me God." He says the book is nearly finished and he hopes the appeals court ruling will help him find a publisher for it. He also hopes the decison will help him find a job.

ED REINECKE

"I have been reluctant to go out and seek a position with a company because of the cloud over my head," said Reinecke, who at least for now wants to return to the engineering career he left for politics.

Reinecke, 51, says he hopes that sales from the book will help pay off at least some of his campaign debt, which has been chopped down from $192,000 by his own efforts and funds raised from supporters.

He says he has no plans now to organize another fundraising effort.

Injuries are fatal in robbery-beating

A 48-year-old El Monte man has died in a Pomona convalescent home, apparently of injuries suffered during a robbery which may have gone unreported.

The victim, Joseph J. Massaro, died Sunday in the Julene Convalescent Home at 1550 N. Park Ave. Pomona police were told that he had been there, in a comatose condition, since Nov. 30.

The robbery and beating occurred in a San Gabriel alley Sept. 15, Pomona police were told, and Massaro was taken to County-USC Medical Center for treatment. Later he was placed in the Pomona home.

An investigation of the case is being conducted by the Los Angeles County Coroner's Office where a deputy told Pomona police that he has been unable to locate a report of the incident either by San Gabriel police or the sheriff's department. Meanwhile, an autopsy was planned to determine the cause of Massaro's death.

Spotlight on crime

Pomona girl, 15, drugged and raped

A 15-year-old Pomona girl picked up by two men and a woman near Holt Boulevard and Fern Avenue in Ontario Monday night told police she was drugged and raped at a home somewhere in Ontario.

The girl reported she was hitchhiking home after visiting her boyfriend at Straight Ahead, a drug rehabilitation center, in Ontario when the trio stopped and asked to give her a ride. She consented to the ride and took a soft drink offered by one of the men. She said while stopped at an Ontario drive-in with the trio, she suddenly became sick and passed out. She said she awoke to find herself in a bedroom with one of the men.

She said the man sexually attacked her, followed by another man she had not seen before. She said she passed out again and awoke in a bathtub filled with cold water.

She said she was being helped by three women who took her back to Straight Ahead where she called police. The girl was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated for an overdose of an unknown type of drug.

She described the men in the car as Caucasians. She said one had a cowboy hat on, and a white "T"-shirt and Levis. He had a small moustache. She said the second man was about 6 feet tall and heavy. Both men had tatooes on their arms.

UPLAND police reported that a man armed with a .357 magnum revolver robbed the Selco Service Station at Foothill Boulevard and Campus Avenue of a small amount of cash Monday evening after locking an attendent in a back room.

Phillip Smith, after forcing open the locked door about 6:22 p.m., called police to report the robbery. Smith described the robber as a Caucasian, 5 feet 9, 160 pounds, about 30, with black short curley hair and black eyes. He was wearing a checked long-sleeved shirt.

Two women were knocked down by two men on the front porch of their UPLAND home Monday night and one of their purses stolen, Upland police reported.

Hazel Irene Bert, 81, and Virginia Bert Alderfer, 56, both of a Columbine Street address, told police they had walked onto their front porch when two men suddenly ran up and knocked them to the floor. One of the men grabbed the older woman's purse and fled.

The purse snatchers were described as being in their mid-twenties. One, a Negro, was slender in build and wore dark clothing. The other man, of unknown race, was wearing something white on his hand according to the women.

A small amount of cash and credit cards were in the purse.

A Denver man, being given a ride home by two men, was attacked and robbed of a small amount of cash as they drove on Pipe Line Avenue, north of CHINO Avenue Monday night in Chino, West End Sheriff's deputies reported.

Ricki G. Montano, visiting his parents in Chino, was admitted to Chino General Hospital for observation after suffering a head injury in the robbery.

Montano told deputies that he had been playing pool with two men in a Chino bar earlier. He said the two men offered him a ride home and he accepted. While enroute to his parent's home the victim said the men stopped the car and suddenly attacked him. They took his wallet and cash and fled in the car.

Montano described the driver of the car as a Caucasian, 28, with blond medium-length hair, 5 feet 10, and 160 pounds. The second man was a Caucasian, 26, with long dark hair, 5 feet 4, 180 pounds. He had numerous tatooes on both arms.

U.S. casts veto on Israel issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has cast its 12th veto in the United Nations Security Council to defeat a resolution condemning Israeli air attacks on Palestinian camps in Lebanon.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the 15-nation council his government, as a principal mediator in the Middle East, could not support the resolution because it did not censure guerrilla violence against Israel and therefore was one-sided.

Hearst gag order sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prosecutors, accusing Patricia Hearst's lawyers of using the media to create sympathy for the jailed heiress, have asked a judge to issue a gag order barring attorneys from further public comment on the case.

The government's motion Monday charged that defense lawyers F. Lee Bailey and Al Johnson waged a "publicity campaign devoted to evoking a sympathetic public image for the defendant by stressing her mental condition."

The result of the publicity, the government alleged, "can only be to influence potential jurors."

Johnson said, "I consider that the request for a gag order to be entirely inappropriate since government agents of as high status as the attorney general of the United States have chosen for the past 19 months during her captivity to effectively diminish the presumption of innocence in her favor by branding her with such comments as being a notorious criminal."

He said he was referring to a statement by former U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe.

Johnson said the motion does not accuse the defense of any court violation anywhere. He did not say whether he intended to oppose the government motion.

The attorney said last Tuesday that Miss Hearst had been losing weight rapidly, looked pale and gaunt and had "emotional problems in converting her thoughts to speech." However, the sheriff's office said she weighed within half a pound of what she weighed when she was jailed 12 weeks ago.

The defense had maintained in previous statements that Miss Hearst was suffering mentally from the effects of her kidnaping by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter was asked to issue a gag order to prevent attorneys on both sides, and other principals in the trial scheduled to start Jan. 26, from making public comment.

The government's motion came in the wake of unofficial messages sent by Judge Carter to both sides.

RISING TO HIS FAITH

Big oil is Tunney target

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., claiming the power of "big oil and...big government" must be broken, says he will introduce a bill limiting the scope of major oil company operations.

"The power of big oil and its unsavory partner, big government, over the people must be broken," Tunney said at a news conference Monday. "Billions of dollars are being gouged from the people of California by the big oil companies."

Tunney said antitrust legislation he planned to introduce today will severely limit the areas in which an oil company can operate. He said the bill would "break up the domination of the oil cartel over the four phases of the petroleum industry — production, transportation, refining and marketing."

Tunney said the bill would allow a company to participate in refining and marketing and only one other phase of the industry.

It also would stop the spread of oil firms into other energy sources such as oil shale, coal, and solar and geothermal power.

He said Middle Eastern countries have forced oil companies to pay them royalties equivalent to at least 60 per cent of the value of oil produced in those countries and that oil firms should be paying more for leases they receive off the Southern California coast. Legal efforts to block the Interior Department sale of the leases have thus far failed.

"Just a few miles west of here, off the Southern California coast, there is what appears potentially to be one of the world's major oilfields," Tunney said. "That oil belongs to the American people, to the people of California. The government is going to give it away at a price no other nation in the world would accept."

He said the 16½ per cent of royalties the government would receive was a "government giveaway, a ripoff of the people worthy of the days of the California robber barons."

Brown center of debate

Door to education—where to?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says the increase in students earning college degrees has cheapened the value of higher education.

He said the result of public support today of nearly one million students in California universities and colleges is frustrating for students who find a college degree doesn't open the doors they expected it would.

Brown made his comments Monday in a unique folk concert and debate which he put together to support Immaculate Heart College, a private nonsectarian school in Los Angeles.

Contemporary folk singer James Taylor opened the program for 1,000 supporters who paid $50 each with a rendition of "Sweet Baby James."

For 90 minutes between the halves of Taylor's concert in the Hollywood Palladium, Brown debated "Education and Wisdom" with conservative editor William F. Buckley Jr. and former University of California President Clark Kerr.

But Brown, who invited Buckley and Kerr and set the format for the unusual concert, dominated the evening, alternately questioning the other panelists and taking center stage with his remarks.

"I find a lot of things going on in the world of education are a bit strange," Brown said.

"We print degrees today like we print money, with just about the same effect, and I think we ought to think about that," he continued.

"There's a problem of overproduction that will raise the frustration level, but not necessarily the productivity level...that's where we are, pushing all these people through these credential machines.

"You have to ask yourself what do you get. You get money. You get babysitting. You get a sorting of people. You get respectable unemployment for the students and tolerable employment for the teachers," the governor said.

Kerr disagreed with Brown, but Buckley tended to support the 37-year-old Democrat's views. Kerr, appointed by Brown's father, former Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, who sat in the third row, asked the younger Brown at one point:

"Would you really as some of your remarks to some extent indicate, say to a person who wants to go to college that the door to a higher quality of life and more equality of opportunity is going to be closed?"

It was a rambling philosophical discussion with relatively few direct answers to questions.

Contrasted to Brown, Kerr suggested that "the greatest problem in education today is the decline in the attention paid to a general liberalized education."

Buckley, in general support of Brown's criticisms, questioned the increase in the number of high school students going on to college, which he said is 44 per cent today compared to 16 per cent two generations ago.

"We suddenly discovered all these people who went to college were not terribly useful citizens and not necessarily happy individuals," Buckley said.

Subsidized child care under study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A legislative report says the state should study whether government-subsidized child-care programs have any success in reducing the dependency of low-income families on government aid.

Legislative analyst Alan Post said Monday that two recent federal studies had different conclusions about such programs. One found that child care programs had a minor positive effect in cutting dependency.

The other said that there was not enough data available to reach a conclusion.

Post said that the cost of subsidized child care has jumped more than 150 per cent since 1969. He said the average support payment per child now is about $2,625 a year.

Blunt talking U.S. style

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan says his blunt U.N. speeches may be a new American style at the world organization but this is the way other nations normally behave.

"We think the United Nations matters ... We think that the only way to stay there is to stay there and fight ... Harsh attack ... is the order of the day over there," he said Sunday in a joint appearance with singer-actress Pearl Bailey, a special adviser to his U.N. delegation, on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

"It has been, perhaps, an American hope that if we didn't respond to attacks upon us, maybe they wouldn't be made," said Moynihan. "... It may perhaps unnerve some people that we are doing this because it's new.

"What we have said is ... we will respond to untrue charges against us. We will, when attacked, defend the good name of this democracy."

"Everybody is blunt in there," said Miss Bailey. "I would like to walk down the aisle sometimes and edit some of the speeches. The first time they say what they're going to say, and then they spew hatred for the next 45 minutes ... I do wish the American people and people of all nations could come and listen.

3 in cycle gang killings imprisoned

Three valley motorcycle gang members convicted recently in the slaying of two men Feb. 5 have been sentenced to state prison by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Earl Broady.

The sentencing wound up the prosecution of four gang members arrested in the slaying of Ontarian Adelbert Hempy, 34, the kidnaping and killing of Pomonan Michael O'Hara, 25, and the wounding of Anteleon Sanchez, 29-year-old Walnut man who owned the motorcycle shop in Industry where the violence began.

Those sent to prison Friday were Donald Kelso, 25, Ontario; Charles Evans, 34, Lawndale; and David Dupres, 19, Torrance.

The trial jury ruled Kelso guilty of two counts of murder but Evans and Dupres guilty of one count of murder, one of manslaughter and one assault with a deadly weapon.

In sentencing the three, Broady ordered that Kelso and Evans serve their prison terms consequetively while Dupres be allowed to serve his concurrently, because of his youth. As a result, Kelso and Evans must serve minimum terms for each conviction before being considered for parole. Dupres will be eligible in seven years.

Last month the fourth defendant, Gregroy White, 20, of Hacienda Heights, also was sentenced to prison by Broady. White had been ruled guilty in a separate trial of first-and second-degree murder, kidnaping and attempted murder.

The trials were transferred from Pomona Superior Court to Los Angeles last summer because of possible legal complications. White's trial was separated from that of the other three because of a possible conflict of interests among defense lawyers.

The trouble occurred at the Custom Design Fabricators Motorcycle Shop at 20900 Currier Road. Hempy was shot to death there and Sanchez was wounded in the leg. O'Hara was forced into a car, shot to death and his body dumped in the Chino area.

Investigators blamed the slayings on a fued between the Warloads and Vagos motorcycle gangs.

Free Income Tax Service Offered at Citizens Savings

Beginning this month, reservations will be taken for the preparation of 1975 State and Federal income tax returns for qualified savers.

Over 13,120 qualified savers last year had their income tax returns prepared at Citizens Savings and Loan Association. And, starting this month, any qualified saver can contact his closest Citizens office and apply for an appointment to meet with one of the tax preparers.

The income tax preparation is compiled by United Tax Service, a subsidiary of United Financial Corporation, which is also the parent company of Citizens Savings. United Tax Service will provide the customer with experienced tax preparers and guaranteed accuracy. Plus, United Tax Service personnel will be available at Citizens Savings to provide you with year round tax service and planning.

When a customer qualifies for the tax service, Citizens will schedule a convenient meeting for him with a trained preparer. His income and deductions will be computer processed to minimize the taxes. And, the individual tax returns will be accurately prepared and checked by a computer.

Citizens Savings is the oldest statewide savings and loan association in California with assets over $1.5 billion.

TWO NEW MODELS INTRODUCED HERE BY ALFA ROMEO

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.Y./JULY 23, 1975 — Conceived on the race track, refined in engineering laboratories, and acclaimed throughout Europe, two new cars being introduced by Alfa Romeo Inc. in the U.S. — the Alfetta and Alfetta GT — have been called the most technically advanced production cars on the world market today.

Powered by the renowned Alfa Romeo all-aluminum, double overhead cam, four cylinder engine — which delivers 25 mpg based on official EPA tests — the new Alfetta four-door sports sedan has a POE price of $6995 while the four seater Alfetta GT coupe is priced at $8195 POE.

"Performance of the Alfettas are typically Alfa Romeo," said C.V. Ronchetti, chief executive of Alfa Romeo in the U.S. "The essential qualities of liveliness, performance, responsive handling, safety and luxurious comfort are abundantly evident in the Alfettas."

Major performance improvements have been obtained in the new Alfettas by placing the clutch, flywheel, five-speed gearbox and differential assembly between the rear wheels.

The suspension is the De Dion type which, with a seldom seen Watts linkage, combines the best advantages of independent rear suspension and the conventional live axle.

Luxurious, scientifically designed seating in both the Alfetta models is of the type accorded top world rating by British orthopedists. An ingenious adjustable steering column which requires only finger-tip pressure to operate enables the driver to adopt an efficient and comfortable position.

Despite compact exterior dimensions, both new models are extremely roomy inside. Trunk capacity is comparable to much larger, bulkier cars.

The prestigious automotive publication, ROAD & TRACK, has selected the Alfetta GT as one of the "ten cars of the year". Editors of the publication — in naming the Alfetta GT as the best Sports GT in the $8,000 to $12,000 class — said the new car "may well be one of the best GT's regardless of price." They concluded that the Alfetta GT "is almost irresistible."

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 9, the 343rd day of 1975. There are 22 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, Japanese troops invaded the Philippines at the beginning of the Pacific war.

On this date —

In 1608, the English poet, John Milton, was born in London.

In 1793, Noah Webster established New York's first daily newspaper.

In 1905, the separation of church and state was decreed in France.

In 1940, British troops opened their first big offensive in North Africa in World War II.

In 1944, Allied troops cracked German defense lines near Aachen, Germany.

In 1958, Robert Welch Jr. and 11 other men met in Indianapolis and formed a political organization they called the John Birch society.

Ten years ago: Anastas Mikoyan, who was among the last of the old Bolsheviks, stepped down as the Soviet chief of state.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon said the United States would resume the bombing of North Vietnam if the Communist side stepped up the South Vietnamese war.

One year ago: Pope Paul took the final steps toward the elevation of American-born Elizabeth Ann Seton to sainthood.

Today's birthdays: Actor Kirk Douglas is 59 years old. Onetime actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. is 66.

Thought for today: Freud was way off base in considering sex the fundamental motivation. The ruling passion in men is minding each other's business — poet Robert Frost, 1874-1963.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, General George Washington's fleet captured two more British transports, both loaded with provisions intended for British troops at Boston.

The Move to Impeach Santa

CHAPTER TWO
By Robert J. Boyle

After talking to the reporter about the impeachment resolution against him, Santa turned to Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes.

"Well, you two better get back to work now," he said. "You have a lot to do before Christmas."

"Gee, Santa, will there be a Christmas?" they asked.

"Now don't you worry about that," he said. "Certainly there will be a Christmas. Now run along. I have to tell Mrs. Santa the bad news."

"No sampling," she laughed as Santa entered the kitchen.

"Not today," he smiled. "I have some news for you and it isn't good news."

"Don't tell me one of the elves is misbehaving," Mrs. Claus said.

"No, it is worse than that and a very serious matter," Santa replied.

Mrs. Claus looked at Santa and saw his worried expression.

"My, Santa," she said. "You do look worried. Sit down and tell me about it. I'll get you a nice cup of cherry leaf tea."

"That sounds good," Santa said. "Well, here is the news. A move was made to impeach me."

Mrs. Claus looked shocked.

"It was Evel Whone from the Baadlands," Santa said. "He introduced a resolution into the UN today asking for my impeachment."

"Evel Whone, Evel Whone," Mrs. Claus said. "Isn't he the boy who got coal in his stocking? Burned his sister's pony tail as I recall. But that was long ago."

"You're right," Santa replied. "Happened back in 1948. But I guess Evel Whone never forgot that."

"What do you think the UN will do, Santa?" Mrs. Claus asked.

"I know the members must hear what Evel Whone has to say," Santa replied. "I also imagine that some members who don't believe in Christmas or happiness will support the resolution."

"You don't think you will be impeached, do you?" Mrs. Claus asked.

"The way the world is today, I don't know," Santa replied. "There is an awful lot of mean people in the world. They don't want happiness but prefer to live in a world full of turmoil, distrust and anger."

"Tsk, tsk, and tsk," Mrs. Claus replied. "What will you do?"

"I guess I'll have to get a defense ready," Santa said.

"Defense!" Mrs. Claus said. "I don't think Santa needs a defense."

"In the good old days I wouldn't," Santa said. "But today, maybe I will. The world is changing and I don't know if it is changing for better or worse."

"Oh, Santa," Mrs. Claus said. "You always found so much good in everyone. This is no time to be thinking of the bad in some."

"You're right, you're right," Santa said. "I'll discuss it with the elves at dinner today. By the way, what are we having?"

"Your favorite, warm burger," Mrs. Claus said. "We're also having snow crystal soup, treetop potatoes and minced green beans. For dessert we're having chocolate snowwhirl pudding."

"Well, I'll get back to my office," Santa said. "That cherry leaf tea hit the spot. Maybe I'll call my lawyer, James St. Goodness and hear what he has to say about the impeachment."

"That's a fine idea, Santa," Mrs. Claus said. "But believe me, you don't have a worry in the world."

"Maybe not," Santa replied as he gave Mrs. Claus a kiss on the cheek. "Maybe not."

When Santa got back to his office he called lawyer James St. Goodness.

"Hello, Jimmy," Santa said. "Did you hear the news?"

"Yes, I did," he replied. "And Santa I'm sorry about it."

"What do you advise I do?" Santa asked.

"I'm sorry, Santa," James St. Goodness said. "But you will have to get yourself another lawyer."

"What?" Santa said. "You've been my lawyer for years."

"I know and I would like to be your lawyer on this one, Santa," St. Goodness said. "But you see I went to school with Evel Whone and I also represent the Baadland Oil Company. So I can't represent you. It would be a conflict of interest."

"I'm sorry to hear that Jimmy," Santa said. "You've been a good lawyer."

"I also won't represent Evel Whone in this case," the lawyer said. "I just finished talking to him and told him that I couldn't act in his behalf either."

"Well that is good," Santa said.

"But I'll tell you something off the record Santa," James St. Goodness said. "I hope you win. I told Evel Whone that what he was doing is wrong. I explained that without you Christmas wouldn't be the same."

"What did he say to that?" Santa asked.

"He laughed," the lawyer said.

"That Evel Whone really is an evil one," Santa said. "I still can't understand why he is doing this."

"I think he is mad at you because you once left him coal in his stocking," the lawyer said.

"But that was back in 1948," Santa said. "In 1947 he got a bicycle and in 1949 he got a radio, an erector set and many other toys."

"But he remembers 1948 and not the other years," the lawyer said. "That's the way some people are. They don't remember your kindness to them."

"Well, Jimmy," Santa said. "I'm sorry you can't represent me."

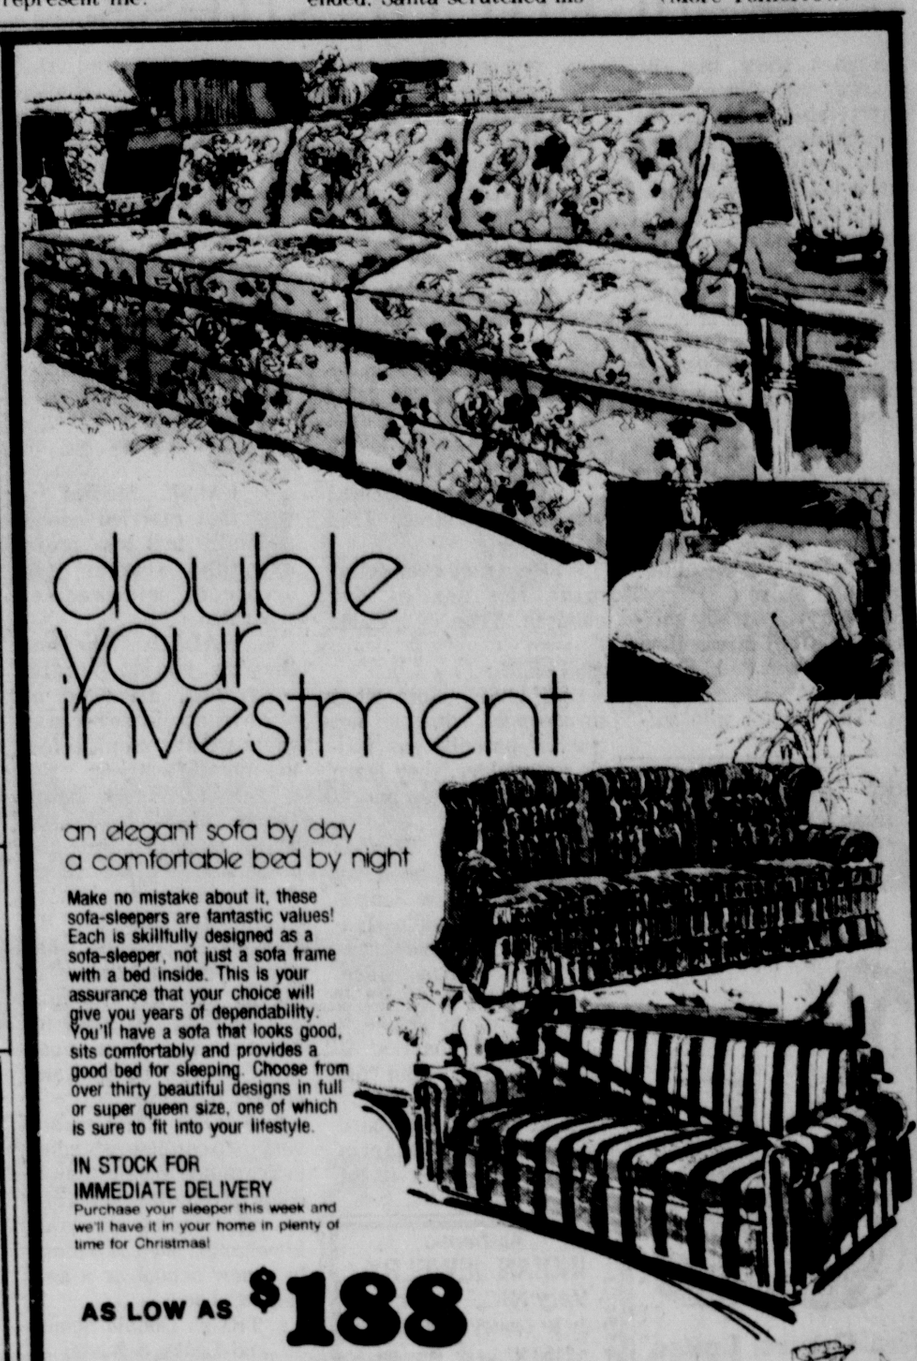

"I'll stay in touch," the lawyer said. "And Santa, good luck."

When the conversation ended, Santa scratched his head and said to himself. "Now who in the world will I ever get to represent me."

A victim of stress

Studies show that life changes and illnesses are interrelated, and that all life changes, even happy ones, cause stress. How much do you know about an important subject that plays a part in all our lives? Here's a chance to check your views against those of some experts.

1. The older a person gets, the more stress he experiences. True ( ) False ( )

2. Getting married produces more stress than the death of a close friend but the death of a close family member produces more stress than a wedding. True ( ) False ( )

3. Blacks generally suffer more from stress than whites. True ( ) False ( )

4. The person who suffers severe stress usually feels that he was in control and failed. True ( ) False ( )

5. Married people feel more pressure and stress than singles. True ( ) False ( )

6. Upper-class women are more stressful than poorer women. True ( ) False ( )

7. Since no one can totally control what's going to happen in his or her life, there is no way to lessen stress. True ( ) False ( )

8. Children are not susceptible to stress. True ( ) False ( )

9. Stress may even determine the sex of our children. True ( ) False ( )

ANSWERS:

1. FALSE. Somewhat surprisingly, this is not true. Apparently, as people grow older, they learn to cope with stress and to handle it better.

2. TRUE. Dr. Thomas Holmes of the University of Washington in Seattle has devised a scale assigning point values to changes that affect human beings. On this scale, the death of a spouse ranks highest, while getting married is more stressful than the death of a close friend.

3. FALSE. Dr. Eberhard Uhlenhuth and Martin Stern of the University of Chicago learned that whites hit the highest stress and symptom-intensity scores, blacks placing a fairly close second. Other racial groups apparently have the least problems.

4. FALSE. Usually such a person feels he had little or no control and this leaves him shaken. Dr. Jerome Singer suggests that the most important factor in reducing stress is to give a person a feeling that he controls his environment.

5. FALSE. Studies reveal that married people generally feel less pressure than singles, the divorced, widowed or separated.

6. FALSE. Whether they're young, single, separated, divorced or widowed, lower-class white women seem to feel the most life stress.

7. FALSE. By being aware of what causes stress, by anticipating and preparing for it, we can cut down on some of its damaging effects. By knowing in advance what may happen and by watching so that we minimize the number of stressful situations that occur at one time, we can cushion and protect ourselves.

8. FALSE. Children are very susceptible. Studies indicate that they often get colds or other illnesses after experiencing a major life change, such as a move to a new school or a new neighborhood.

9. TRUE. Donald Schuster and Locky Schuster, a husband-wife team of psychologists at Iowa State University, feel this may be the case. The stressful, striving husband seldom fathers a son, they say.

If you answered six out of the nine questions, you know more than most about this interesting subject.

Native Daughters hold yule dinner

The silver anniversary Christmas party and benefit dinner of Rancho San Jose Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be held at 5:30 today at the Assistance League clubhouse in Pomona.

Proceeds from the early California dinner will be used for the organization's civic and philanthropic projects. In place of the customary exchange of gifts, members and their guests will bring groceries and warm clothing for a Chino family now meeting almost insurmountable medical costs because of illness of a child.

Assisting Mrs. Dale McCannon, Children's Foundation chairman, with the project are Mrs. Myrtle Pool, Mrs. J. E. Ridley, Mrs. William Morris and Mrs. Faith Shcroeder.

A highlight of the silver anniversary programs will be presented by Mrs. Alphonse B. Fages, parlor president. She will dramatize "La Noche Buena," the story of the birth of the first white child of California in 1775. The parents were members of the Anza expedition of that year.

Mrs. Fages has given her original dramatization for many groups, the last being a program for La Puente Valley Historical Society on Sunday at Rowland house, Puente.

Mrs. Donald Carpenter of San Dimas was in charge of the dinner and reservations were accepted by Mrs. Edwin Greenwald.

Recently the parlor obtained an allowance of $400 from the state committee, Children's Foundation, to purchase a wheelchair and provide other needs for a cerebral palsy victim in the area. Attention to the need was brought to the local committee through an item in the Progress Bulletin.

THE COMPLEAT AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE 1776

This delightful book was compiled by "a Lady" of the times and extensively illustrated. The volume contains nostalgic recipes, pages of Colonial philosophy and sage sayings by famous people of the day, household hints, a bartender's guide of our founding fathers' day and a look into the diary of a 1776 housewife.

The old fashioned prose, the old-style type face, pen and ink drawings and 'antique' stock combine into a beautiful salute to our Bicentennial celebration.

VA making check of pensioners' incomes

Annual income questionnaires are being included with Veterans Administration pension checks being mailed across the United States this month.

The questionnaires also go to 34,000 parents receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation checks.

The completed questionnaires must be returned to the VA by Jan. 1 to insure continued receipt of benefits.

Pensions are paid to veterans and to widows of veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities.

Amount of the monthly check is based on the annual income of the recipient.

With some exceptions, pensioners are required to file income questionnaires each year. Those 72 or older are exempt from filing, but must report income changes as they occur.

Group waiting for Christ, end of world

GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — "We don't have any special plans for Christmas," says Elizabeth Nance Bard. "We just think maybe we won't be here."

She is one of 25 persons who are closeted in a small brick house waiting for the second coming of Christ and the world to end.

The vigil began 70 days ago with believers abandoning their homes and jobs. Mrs. Bard says the group is "in no way discouraged. We just keep praying and studying and waiting for the end to come.

"Christmas, of course, is a special time," she said. "But what we're doing is even more important."

Residents reported hearing "bloodcurdling screams" from the house, and seeing nighttime parades by vigil keepers dressed in white robes.

"There is nothing sinister, weird or strange about this," Mrs. Bard said. "Nothing goes on in the house that doesn't go on in a church — a lot of praying and religious study."

Mrs. Bard's comments sparked an editorial Saturday by the Arkansas Gazette, the state's largest newspaper, defending the group's freedom of religion.

"If they left their jobs, closed their businesss and moved to the house in accordance with what they believe one member was told by God in a vision, they have done no harm to anyone, nor have they done anything but mind their own business," the newspaper said.

The Gazette criticized county officials who "will not let well enough alone and show the same respect for religious or lack of religious belief to the 25 on the vigil that they expect for themselves."

"The editorial brought some sanity to the whole thing," Mrs. Bard said. "I guess people just needed to know that we're serious about this, not just kooks. People maybe just forget what religion really is."

Company records—and back pay—fouled up

Refugees won't get gardening firm

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

The gardening company of Gerald Martin, original sponsor of some 200 Vietnamese refugees in Pomona, will not be taken over by the Tolstoy Foundation because of the "sad state of disarray" of the company's books, reported a Tolstoy representative Monday.

Nelson Reed, head of the foundation's Pomona office, which has been seeking new sponsors for the refugees since Martin's sponsorship was revoked, said a certified public accountant had been unable to audit the company's books because of the condition of the company's records and that the foundation's legal counsel had recommended against a takeover of the company.

The foundation had originally hoped to operate the company and provide jobs for about 10 Vietnamese.

Due to Martin's poor record keeping, said Nelson, the $7,400 in back wages owed to refugees will also not be immediately paid.

Martin founded the Garden State Gardening Co., in Garden Grove, with a portion of the $100,000 in federal funds he received for sponsoring the refugees. Estimates of how much money went into the company range from $20,000 to $40,000.

Nelson said the foundation will ask Martin to put the company's books in order.

Martin is still operating the company, which is now employing a number of Americans as gardeners.

In other developments, Nelson reported that three commitments, including a Claremont church and two local families, had been made to sponsor Vietnamese families. In addition, three other potential sponsors have been found.

On Thursday two Vietnamese will be taken to the Fresno area to look over the facilities on a 3,000 acre ranch and vineyard, whose owner is willing to provide fulltime jobs to Vietnamese.

Nelson said it will be totally up to the Vietnamese whether they wish to accept the offer, which would be general ranch labor at $2.25 per hour plus housing and utilities.

He added that Tolstoy officials had checked into the offer and were enthusiastic.

The primary crop of the ranch is grapes.

He said that Tolstoy had also been assured that the Vietnamese would not be displacing any present laborers at the ranch and that the ranch has not been the target of any farm labor disputes.

City studies complaints appeal plan

Pomona City Council Monday night reviewed a proposed procedure that would allow citizens greater freedom in challenging alleged misconduct of city employes.

Although no vote was taken on the proposal, it seemed generally well received by the council, which directed the staff to submit the proposal to the city's various employe groups and the city's Merit System Commission for their review and comments.

The proposal, if approved by the council, will allow citizens to appeal to the Merit System Commission if they feel their complaint is not fairly reviewed at departmental level.

The current practice is for a citizen to make a complaint with the head of the department in which the city employe works. The department head then reviews the complaints and determines whether any disciplinary action should be taken.

If the department head feels the complaint is not justified, the new proposal would allow the citizen to appeal that decision to the commission for a hearing at which the citizen and employe would present their sides.

The commission would then make an advisory finding to the department, city council and citizen.

The proposal was prepared following many meetings between the city and representatives of the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice.

Nearly one year ago the coalition had charged that the present complaint system was inadequate because it served to protect the employe and did not allow a hearing by an impartial body of complaints.

At that time the coaliton charged that instances of police brutality and misconduct were not being fairly reviewed, and they called for the creation of a police review board.

In other business, Police Chief F. P. Wallick reported to the council on his decision that the city not participate in an area-wide burglary task force now being organized.

Wallick stated that he had some reservations about the administration of the task force in that Pomona would contribute the most money but would have only one vote in determining where task force members would be deployed.

He also cited the city's current financial crisis and the fact that Pomona has its own burglary task force which has been successful in reducing the number of Pomona burglaries.

The city's financial plight, with City Administrator Jerrold Gonce still projecting a $3 million budget deficit for next year, prompted two other actions as the council approved the consolidation of the city's management systems and purchasing departments, and adopted new guidelines for the use of city vehicles.

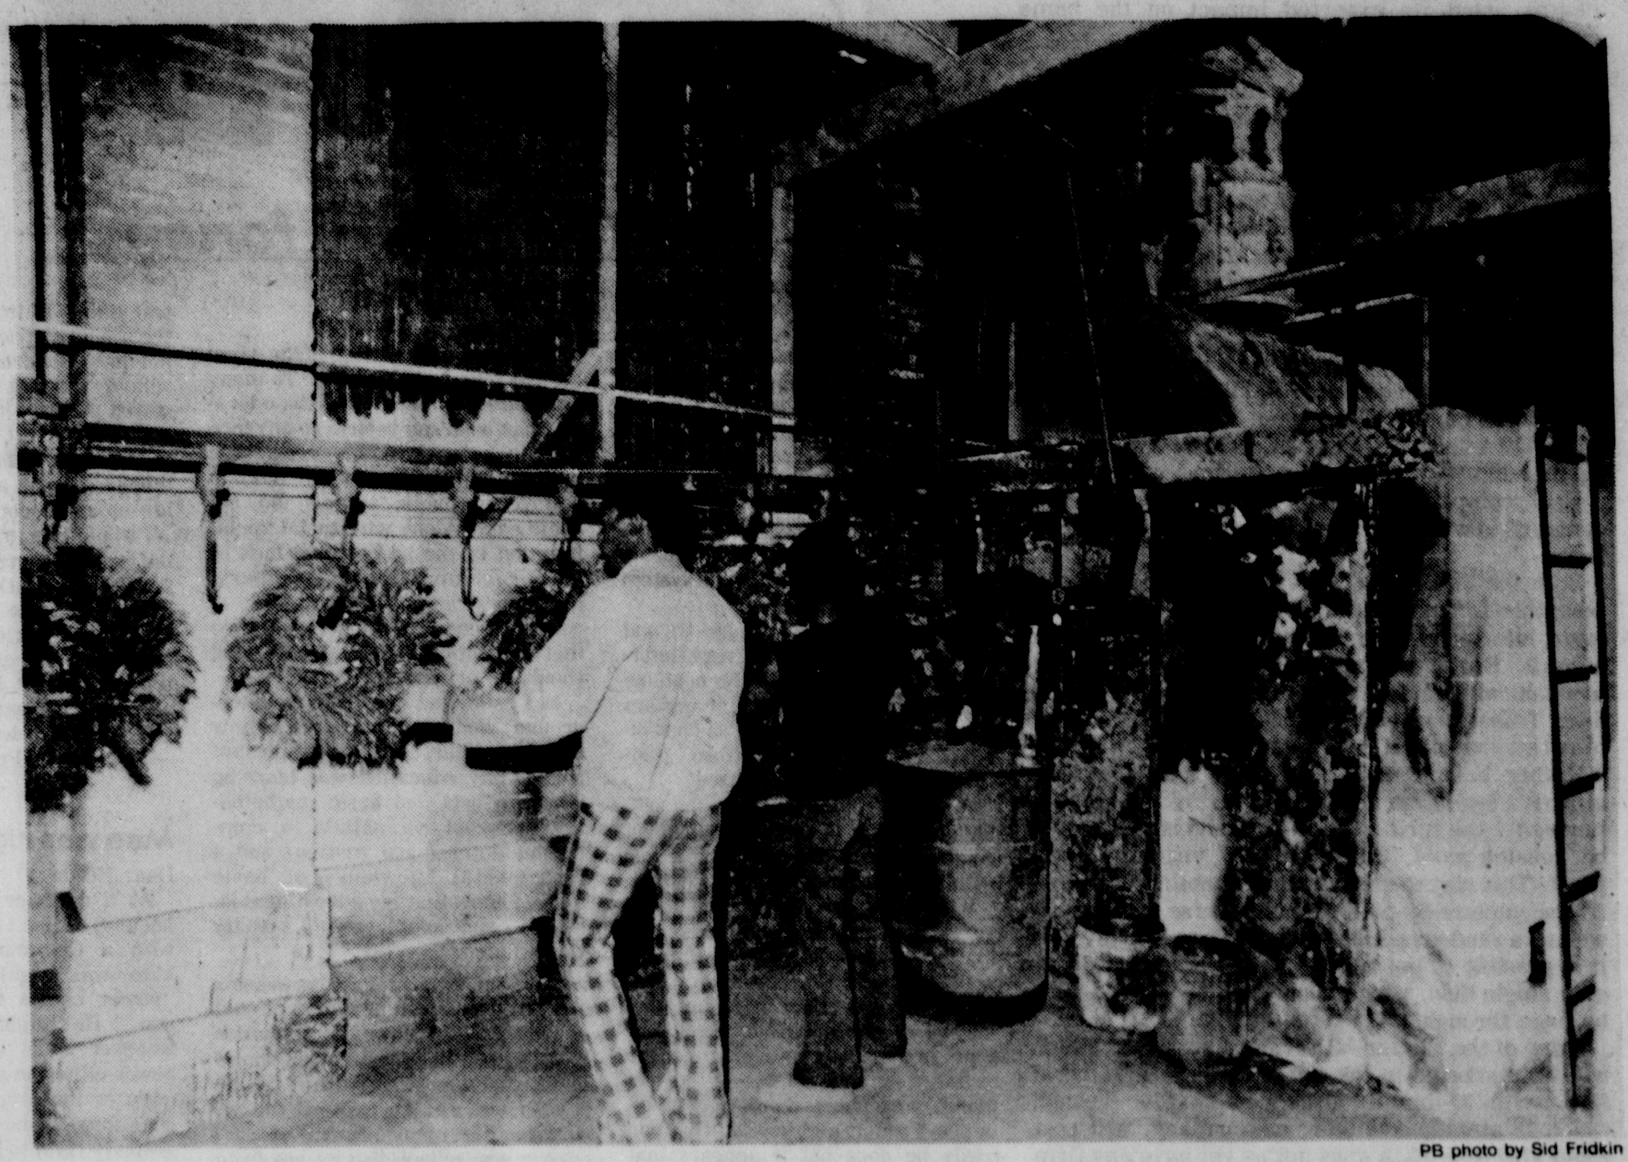

Councilman Adrian Wright cast the only vote against the departmental consolidation, stating that more money could be saved by eliminating positions in the departments, hiring an assistant city administrator for management of the departments, and doing away with one of Gonce's present assistants.

Councilmen Benjamin Ochoa and Charles Bader took the opposite viewpoint, however, saying they were in favor of departmental consolidations whenever possible and would insist on further consolidations.

Gonce estimated that the consolidation would save about $10,000 per year and give greater administrative control.

The guidelines on the use of city vehicles, approved unanimously by the council, are the result of a lengthy management study and should save about $38,000 per year over the next three years.

The guidelines place stricter control on the takehome of city vehicles by employes as well as daily use.

BACK ON JOB — Youths are back at work today in the Della Robbia Wreath factory at Boys Republic in Chino, after $100,000 fire last Friday destroyed 1,000 wreaths. Paint booth where fire broke out can be seen at right in photo. Officials believe lighted match started fire in the booth.

Undetermined whether accident or arson

Match sparked Boys Republic blaze

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A match thrown into a paint booth in the Della Robbia Wreath production complex at Boys Republic apparently touched off the $100,000 fire last Friday, officials believe.

In fact, authorities say they are searching for a male employe of the Chino boys home for questioning in the incident.

Chino Fire Marshall Leo Beeson said Monday he was unsure at this point whether the match throwing was malicious or a result of horseplay. "But it could hardly be accidental," he added.

The green spray paint booth operation had been shut down just before the fire broke out, because of some production problems, Beeson said. No work was being performed before the 3 p.m. blaze, so there may have been horseplay, he indicated.

Frank Graves, Boys Republic director, said the adult staff member being sought for questioning has not been seen since the fire. "The guy was here before the fire, but not after."

About 1,000 wreaths still being worked on were lost because of the fire, he disclosed. Earlier, Graves had indicated no materials were damaged. Also, around 1,000 empty boxes used for shipping wreath creations were ruined in the blaze.

"I want to make it clear that none of our boys were involved in starting the fire," said Graves. In fact, when the blaze started, the boys grabbed as many wreaths as they could and took them outside the work area, he added.

Wreath production was halted over the weekend, but the workers were back in full swing Monday. The blaze will not halt the Christmas project, Graves emphasized.

"I thought at 4 p.m. Friday, with the roof in flames, that there was no chance of recovery," he said. "But by 7 p.m. I figured we were all right. We worked 14 hours Saturday and 14 on Sunday to get back in operation."

Youths at the home were in their eighth day of the project when the fire broke out. About 25,000 wreaths already had been shipped, but another 25,000 were under production.

The blaze started in the paint booth and spread to the roof of one building, and to the roof of an adjoining structure. Structural and electrical damage was heavy.

Graves claimed that because of the fire in the roof, it took Chino firemen one hour to extinguish the blaze.

Slope problems noted

S.D. reduces lot sizes for tract

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The San Dimas City Council Monday night approved a zone change and tentative tract map for 130 homes in Via Verde.

The council voted 4-0, with Ray Miracle abstaining at the direction of City Atty. Norman Oliver, to approve the zone change from single family residential with minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet to residential with minimum lot size of 9,000 square feet. The property, owned by Via Verde Development Co. and to be developed by Crow-Pacific Corp., is located between Calle Serra and Via Verde easterly of Avenida Lomita in Via Verde.

Planning Director Mark Goldberg gave an extensive report on the property, detailing the physical makeup of the development, explaining that a variance had been granted to avoid "exaggerated stairstepping" of sideyards on the slopes of the property and showing slides of the adjacent Woodridge tract of Crow-Pacific.

The low density development calls for 3.1 homes per acre. Landscaping will be more extensive in this project than in the woodridge tract, according to Darryl Wright, a representative of Crow Pacific.

During the public hearing on the matter, Doug Fordyce, president of the Via Verde Homeowners Association, spoke against the development.

Fordyce charged that the variance sets a precedent for future development in Via Verde and asked who would accept responsibility — the developer or property owner — for possible flooding due to soil erosion along Avenida Lomita.

Frank Basile, director of public works, said that there was a type of soil erosion along Avenida Lomita that had a roller coaster effect on the street. He pointed out that the city, Pacific Soil Consultants and Vinnell-Pauley Corp. had conducted an extensive, joint investigation of the erosion and were sure of the cause of the problem and a solution.

Basile assured the council that the "roller coaster problem is not a part of this tract. The soil engineer at the site has been alerted to stay aware of this particular condition."

Vice Mayor Keith Brogan noted that the development will remain "low density with only 3.1 houses per acre rather than the allowable four, landscaping requirements are far in excess of the adjoining area, landscaping maintenance has been spoken to and the necessary safeguards have been laid out this evening to cover this development."

With this, he moved for approval of the zone change and Councilman James McLean seconded his motion.

Councilman Marvin Ersher, asserting that he did not want a precedent to be set on the variance issue for future developments, said he would support the motion if it is clear that variances will not necessarily be granted for future developments.

Miracle arrived late, catching only fragments of the discussion, and counselor Oliver directed him to abstain. The council also approved the tract map on a 4-0-1 vote.

In other matters, the council:

— Directed the staff to seek proposals and cost estimates from consultants, today through Dec. 22, for a review of the land uses, character of the area, environmental impact, city-wide balance of land uses and feasibility of certain uses for property at the intersection of Via Verde Avenue and Puente Street. The property owner is currently petitioning the city for a General Plan land use amendment from administrative-professional to commercial.

— Waived fees for a conditional use permit for outside storage at the A-Z Transfer and Storage Co., 225 S. Monte Vista Ave. and directed Goldberg and the property owners to work together to establish stipulations for proper screening of the storage area.

— Set Jan. 12 as the data for public hearings on a proposed amendment to the General Plan regarding solid waste management plan, and a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance regarding corner lot setbacks in the single family residential zone.

Repair-training program

Elderly poor to get county aid on homes

San Bernardino County Supervisors Monday approved the selection of six agencies to administer $300,000 in federal antipoverty grants for free home repairs for elderly poor.

Contracts with the agencies will require that repairs costing no more than $250 be made on a minimum of 1,250 homes in the county.

Work will be done through the Senior Youth Training and Minor Repair Program in which 40 senior citizens with trade skills will be employed to train 40 youths to make the repairs.

Agencies approved to administer $60,000 in each of the five county supervisorial districts are the Ontario Community Action Corp., in Fourth District, Environmental Improvement Agency in Second District, Yucaipa Junior Women's Club, Westside Community Development Corp. in San Bernardino, Victorville YMCA and the Morongo Valley Unified School District.

A leisure revolution

What one electronics manufacturer calls "the most important market development since the introduction of color television" will be bidding for the consumer dollar in late 1976.

This is the videodisc, the television counterpart of the long-playing phonograph record. If anything, claims about its expected impact on the home entertainment field may be understated.

Played through a special unit that is simply attached to the antenna terminals of an ordinary black and white or color television set, videodiscs will enable viewers to play, at their leisure, movies, documentaries, educational programs, sports events or any other kind of audiovisual material. Because videodiscs will not fall under the jurisdiction of the Federal Communications Commission, X-rated films and other nonstandard fare will presumably be made available on discs eventually for those so inclined.

Currently, three companies are the leading competitors in the videodisc race — Teldec (a combination of Germany's Telefunken and Britain's Decca), RCA and North American Philips in partnership with MCA.

Each company's system is different, each is incompatible with the others and each has its advantages.

Both the Teldec and RCA systems use discs that resemble LPs, except that they contain 100 times more information necessary for a complete video signal. Both employ a stylus that makes mechanical contact with minute grooves in the disc. Teldec's videodisc has a playing time of 10 minutes, that of RCA 30 minutes on each side.

Rather than a stylus, the Philips-MCA system utilizes a low-power laser beam that reads information under the surface of the disc and is thus said to be scratch-proof, dirt-proof and virtually wear-proof. This player also has the capability of freeze-frame, picture-by-picture and reverse viewing, as well as a random access feature. The company says it is possible to put an entire mail-order catalogue on a single disc, which could then be "read" page by page through a TV set.

Price of the Philips-MCA videodisc player, which will be marketed in the fall of 1976, is targeted at $500, with 30-minute discs costing $10. Teldec, which is already available in Germany, will cost about $100 less. RCA does not as yet have any firm marketing plans.

"Revolution" is a word that is bandied about a lot these days, and not always in a political context. However, it is difficult not to use it when thinking about videodiscs, especially when added to the possibility of large-screen wall television in another few years.

Yet people have shown an amazing capacity to absorb other revolutions in communications — radio, talking pictures, television itself or the printing press, for that matter. No doubt we will quickly come to accept as a matter of course the ability to see and hear a symphony orchestra perform at any time of our choosing, or to build an inexpensive private library of classic motion pictures.

But what effect the videodisc revolution will have on commercial television, not to mention cable TV and the local movie theater, is anybody's guess.

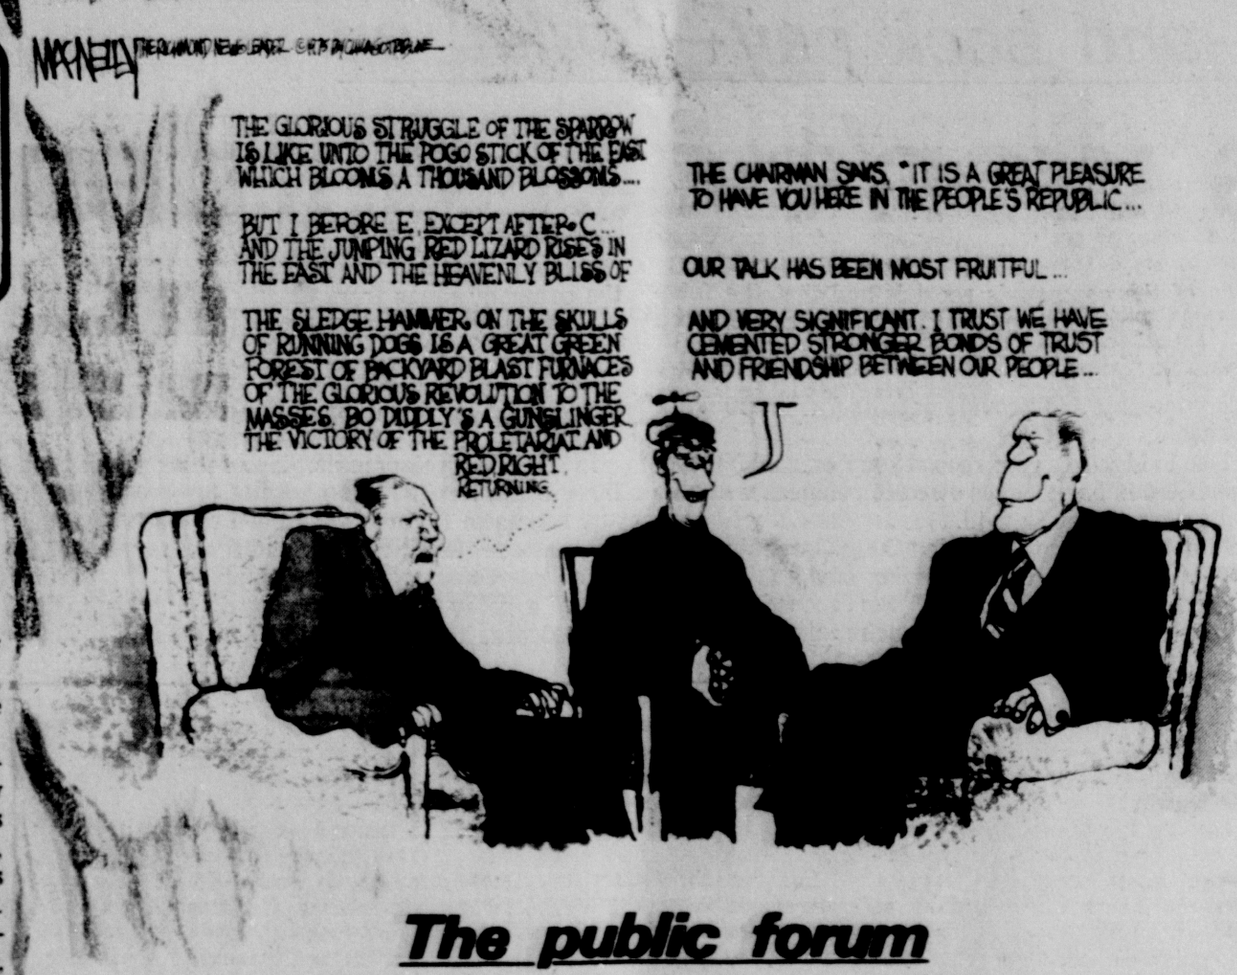

About this-that

Outstanding coverage

Dear Editor:

I want to commend the Progress Bulletin on the exceptional coverage of local news. I would like to especially express my appreciation to your staff writers who have so excellently covered the subject of local transportation matters. In my opinion, if the coverage would have been as thorough in 1972 we probably would have had a valley wide system today.

Your efforts in the "Stand Up and Be Counted" has been very informative. However, with the headline in the December 4 edition, it appears that the city has extended an open invitation by their "can't afford" position to join a new task force.

Reference is also made to the article pertaining to the redevelopment commissioners who are displeased with the actions of the City Council.

It appears that the council has a very negative attitude towards most matters which they are confronted with. Although it is more than a year before city elections it is felt that maybe some effort could be made by your newspaper to encourage the citizenry of this community to demand more from their elected officials. I am at a loss as to what can really be done but it appears that Pomona is making very little progress in comparison to some of the other communities in our local area. Again, my sincere thanks for the outstanding coverage of news you are providing. — Allen L. Harders, Pomona

A new emphasis

Dear Editor:

The name of the game is the same but the rules have changed. To many of us ethnic minority parents, education has been the vehicle to advance in the system. The academic preparation that we were able to receive in public schools did not come easy. Along with social/racial isolation in the schools and lack of encouragement from teachers, counselors and administrators to continue school, we understood then that education was valuable and should be prized.

As I reflect on my academic background and preparation, I now recognize that the most important part of my education was learning language arts and basic mathematics. Without an ability to communicate (oral and written) and a fundamental knowledge of basic math, I know that my educational interests and employment viablity would fade.

I now see that the Pomona schools are considering a new educational emphasis and rearranging priorities based on results of testing that shows the district behind several grade levels in reading and math. Historically, measurement of success in any school district has been reflected in standarized tests that compare a district with state and national norms.

Have the rules changed now that racial/ethnic minorities are appearing constantly at the lower end of the test data? Is it now convenient for the school district to ignore accepted norms of accountability? Is the school district's position simply stated as "now that we're unable to achieve the test results in the basic skills, let's change our educational emphasis to an area that we feel we are or can become successful?"

I would encourage the members of the school board to again consider the full implications of the test summaries given to them on November 14 and then seriously consider what evaluation was given the test data by school officials. I hope that you conclude that the game is still education and that the rules remain the same. — Lupe Ruiz, Pomona

Mao was right

Dear Editor:

As a member of the John Birch Society, it isn't often that I agree with a Communist but Chairman Mao was right when he stated "power comes from the end of a gun." He might have added that whoever holds the gun wields the power-either an all-powerful government or the people.

As long as the people retain their absolute right to keep and bear arms they will maintain the power. Give up that right and Big Brother takes over. Chairman Mao knows this. Our founding Fathers knew it. I know it. How come the liberal, collectivist politicians don't seem to know it? Or do they? — Vic Reid

A hot place for hot words

In a remarkable speech recently, South Dakota Democratic Senator George McGovern has tried to set his party right on an issue too many Democrats are wrong on. That issue is busing.

The term busing expanded, may mean those American school children, 40% of those in school today, who for reasons of distance and distance alone, are transported from home to school and back again on yellow school buses.

But Senator McGovern knows, as does everyone else, that no one objects to this kind of busing, as no one objected to the wholesale transportation of black children past white schools to black schools for years.

What McGovern wants his party to face up to is its objection to the busing of 3% of the school population — those transported to schools on buses to obey the Constitutional prohibition against segregated schools.

In other words, the issue is not the bus. It's us! That's what George McGovern meant when he asked the Democratic Party "not to sell it's soul on the issue of busing." A portion of McGovern's speech is worth quoting here:

"Integration is the issue," he said, "whether America will live a lie or make it true that we are one country with one liberty and one justice for all citizens of any race.

"We have heard," said McGovern, "about magnet schools, educational parks, different attendance zones and school construction shifts. But the question is whether these are rhetorical tricks or real alternatives. We are always brought back to the basic question: do we want integration or segregation?

"If busing is the wrong answer, what is the right answer? What substitute will integrate the schools? And how? And at what cost?

"People are not going to be fooled another time. More of then understand that any candidate who says, or implies, that by supporting him, the voters can stop the buses, will prove to be either a liar or a violator of the Constitution."

Part of the reason, not all of it by any means, that George McGovern isn't President today is plain truthful talk like that. He may run again, although many of his former supporters hope he won't.

If he's only managed to set the issue straight for all to see, then he's done a service to us all. One more thing. The forum for the Senator's outspoken busing remarks was in Louisville, Ky., the scene of some very heated white reaction against busing.

A hot place for some hot words. But the quiet spoken Senator from South Dakota has to be credited with wisdom in the face of wrath.

Albert's Moon girl

WASHINGTON — In the past year, Speaker Carl Albert has acquired a new friend. She is Susan Bergman, a smiling young follower of the Korean religious-political cultist, Reverend Sun Myung Moon.

The hazel-eyed Miss Bergman sits in the House gallery, often in the special section reserved for Congressmen's families, where she watches the Speaker in action almost every day.

Earlier in the day, she usually greets him in the hallway outside his office and presents him with flowers. Often she brews him Ginseng tea in the small kitchen just down the hall from the Speaker's ornate office where the two of them spend many pleasant hours.

Albert has also been seen on the cocktail circuit with other young women from his office, two of them exotic Oriental beauties. He arranged a special visa so one of them, Grace Chen, could work in his office. Not long afterward, he turned up in his own car to help her move to a new apartment.

The Speaker brought three office girls — Iris Adams, Verneil English and Kathryne Prewitt — to keep him company on his recent trip to Russia. And four lovelies — Iris Adams, Loise Butler, Kathleen Kwock and Helen Newman — accompanied him to China.

In those gossip circles that thrive on the bons mots, the pouts, the whims and the blunders of Washington bigwigs, the Speaker's relationship with his attractive office help has stirred titillating talk.

Several associates of the Speaker say he looks upon the women on his staff in more than a fatherly fashion. Albert claims no more than a mildly paternal attitude toward the women he employs. He admitted having a stormy argument, however, with a former staff member about her social life. According to Albert, "I told her I didn't want my staff going with married Congressmen."

The fading, freckled firebrand, who at five-foot-four was once known as the mighty mite of Capitol Hill, is indignant over the gossip. He insists that he has never behaved improperly with his female employees. "I'm just friendly with them," he told us.

Susan Bergman was once seen making a hasty exit from his private office when the Speaker's wife, Mary Isabelle, arrived in the outer reception area. The Moon proselyte departed hurriedly through a side door as Mrs. Albert entered the front door.

The Speaker told us he couldn't remember any such incident. Anyway, he said, Mrs. Albert knows Sue Bergman and "knows she's a nice girl."

Albert described his new friend as "just a nice girl, a very nice girl, a Jewish girl from New York. She got all hepped up on the Lord Jesus, and she just wants to share it. I think that's a nice thing . . . She's trying to convert me."

Their friendship, he said, is perfectly innocent. "Why, I'm 67 years old. She's just a girl. She doesn't have any crush on me. She just brings me flowers. She just walks in here and sits down and chats. Sometimes she'll walk in and sit down while I'm working. I don't pay her no mind."

When Egypt's President Anwar Sadat spoke to Congress, Albert kindly gave the Moon girl one of his two gallery passes so she could watch the historic moment. He also introduced her to some of the astronauts at a reception for the Russian-American space team.

Just in jest

What's new in the world of higher education? — Well, this week we salute Cal State Long Beach where, even though they don't earn credits for it toward graduation, students can now take a course in Graffiti writing. It is definitely a segregated study project, separate classes being located in the men's and women's restrooms.

There, blackboards and chalk have been installed in each toilet stall to enable students to practice the fine art of Graffiti Writing under the most ideal surroundings. — But because the world is not yet quite ready to award academic degrees for Graffiti Theses, erasers are also provided in those toilet stalls. Thus the evidence can be destroyed before some old time, hard nosed, puritanical taxpayer decides to make a political issue over such newfangled methods in higher education.

When a raise is not a raise

Before this time tomorrow the federal government is going to raise your taxes. Government will raise your taxes without announcement and you will pay the increase without protest.

Then, day after tomorrow, your taxes will be raised again. Let's hope the cost of living goes up this year no more than 10%. It went up 12% last year. But this year let's hope the dollar will shrink no more than 10%.

If your employer or your contract provides for a 10% wage increase, you'll still go backward, because that increase will push you into a higher tax bracket.

The way our income tax is graduated, the more your income the greater "percentage" of that income you must return to the government in taxes.

Another for-instance: You buy a house for $15,000. At a 10% annual inflation rate you'll have to sell that house in 20 years for $103,210 to get back your original investment.

But you won't get it back because you'll have to pay a capital gain tax of $88,210! The same thing would happen if you bought a share of stock.

As long as our cost of living is going up you are paying a "higher tax" every day. When the inflation rate was only 2% or 3% nobody noticed. It's time we notice.

Economists call this overtax "a fiscal dividend." Except Jude Wanniski; he calls it "the quiet tax." Politicians like it. It brings more money into the federal treasury without the politicians having to vote more taxes.

Louisiana's Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, admits it. He says, "I've never had to vote for a general tax increase in 30 years — because of the extra revenues we get by people moving into higher tax brackets."

The "higher tax brackets" do not mean a higher standard of living, of course. Unless the worker demands and gets a pay increase which is adequate to offset inflation AND recoup the extra tax bite.

But if the wage earner does that and the Federal Reserve increases the money supply enough to accommodate this combined wage increase, then inflation is spurred further, all dollars shrink faster and your government has "cancer."

I'm mentioning this because I overheard some applause when Big Labor's George Meany went up the Hill to demand "move government spending now to create more jobs now."

Like the politicians, he's willing to make himself look good while saddling you with additional quiet taxes.

Until, like the miserable government of Britain, we have a labor government which pays off laboring people with money worth 26% less than one year ago.

Think on these things

We are never really separated from persons we love regardless of time and space and circumstances. When people care about each other there is a natural communication, a knowing that unites them though miles may separate them. It surpasses the natural laws as we know them and allows persons tuned to each other the special privilege of touching minds if not hands.

Our feeling nature has opened many lines of communication, understanding and thoughfulness to those who have great need to know they are not alone. Whether we are near them or far away it is a marvelous thing to know that we are loved and that we are loving.

Rat should have no litter problems

DEAR DR. MILLER: Rebecca, my rat, is going to have her first litter soon. How long will she be in labor? Concerning the babies, when do they first get teeth, and how long will Rebecca nurse them? — K.R.

DEAR K.R.: Rats are not prone to parturition problems. Rebecca should deliver her litter in an hour to an hour and a half, depending on litter size. The incisors (those front chisel teeth) erupt between the eighth and tenth days. Rebecca will no doubt be glad to wean her litter, possibly by three weeks or at least by four.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My son, while playing with a stick, accidentally whacked Laddie, our collie, right in the eye. I saw it happen and was horrified, thinking Laddie would lose the eye for sure. He winced, pawed at his eye a bit, slunk off to a corner for an hour or two, and then seemed perfectly all right. I've been watching him closely since, and the eye looks just fine. The question, how heavy a blow can an eye take and still be able to see? Also, we're so thankful but it's really incredible Laddie got by with this, don't you think? — N.E.

DEAR N.E.: A collie's eye is comparatively small and well-protected by surrounding bone, can certainly be expected to survive more of a blow than the eye of a Pekingese or Boxer. Loss of sight or loss of the eye itself would not depend on a direct blow, necessarily. Severe enough injury to surrounding structures could cause massive hemorrhage and/or other changes which could cause irreparable eye damage. Whenever the eye or its adjacent areas are known to have suffered any injury, the doctor should check Laddie out at once to determine if treatment is necessary. If it is, immediate treatment may be the difference between saving the eye and losing it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've had our flu shots. We qualify as part of that older group who are hit hardest by flu. My question concerns our two cats, who are also "senior citizens." It's my understanding flu shots are available for cats now. Are these shots equally appropriate for our cats? Or are they better used just on young kittens? — D.C.

DEAR D.C.: You're undoubtedly referring to the recently-available commercial vaccine for feline viral rhinotracheitis (F.V.R.) vaccine. I personally recommend the use of this vaccine for all of my feline patients, be they three months or 13 years, since this important respiratory virus can and does hit cats in any age bracket. Picorna virus vaccine is also newly offered and available.

Ann Landers

A chance to educate millions

Dear Ann Landers: I have struggled with this letter for several days, trying to put it into language you can print. This is the best I can do. The subject: Relatives and the Sexual Exploitation of Children.

I am 23 now and have vivid memories of three such experiences. The first was an uncle. I was only six years old at the time. He followed me into the bathroom when we were alone in the house and took sexual liberties with me. I was warned not to say anything to anyone or something "bad" would happen to me. I didn't realize what he was doing and was just plain terrified. I never told a soul.

The second encounter was with my own father when I was 11 years of age. I would rather not go into the details of that soul-searing experience. I never told anyone about it because I was afraid it might destroy my mother.

The third was a friend of my parents. I was 14. He was drunk, had passed out in our house during a party and came to my bedroom at dawn. It's hard to believe I was so naive. I never told a soul what happened. I realize now I could have become pregnant.

I will be 23 years of age next week and just lost a boyfriend I really cared about. Our romance lasted only three months because I'm afraid to let a man get close to me.

How can these hideous experiences be avoided? The answer is education. Parents should talk freely to their children about the sanctity and privacy of their bodies. Children should be instructed at an early age (four isn't too soon) not to allow anyone — friend, neighbor, or relative — to take liberties with their bodies. Moreover, children should be told that if anyone tries to get intimate to report it to a parent at once.

I know now that I was severely damaged by those early sexual experiences. I know, too, that every day some innocent child is being exploited in every state in the union. Please, Ann, print this letter and help open the eyes of both parents and children. It's a wonderful opportunity to educate millions. Thank you. — A Victim

Dear Friend: You are the only one who should be thanked. I hoped every parent and child who reads this column will pay close attention.

You didn't ask for any personal advice, but I feel compelled to offer it. If you haven't considered therapy to help resolve the problems created by YOUR early traumatic experiences, I hope you will do so immediately.

Dear Ann Landers: A close friend has taken up oil painting as a hobby. She claims it has done her more good than three years with a shrink. Last week she surprised us with a housegift — a beautifully framed monstrosity for our living room.

The canvas is enormous and the painting looks like either a barn that has caught fire or an industrial accident — depending on your imagination. My husband says we MUST hang it for a while at least. I can't bear the thought, yet I'd hate to hurt her feelings. She's a dear person. Please advise. — Torn

Dear Torn: Sounds like a great conversation piece. Hang it for a while — then rotate your art (many people do this) and move the picture to a closet shelf.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400 Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Oldest con game in country

The great Minnesota Fats, for over 50 years a legend at the pool table, was defeated recently in two straight games by a fourth-grader from Houston who had to stand on tiptoes to reach the table.

As the child leaned over the table, exposing the price tag on a new pair of yellow jeans, the old pro was heard to plead, "Hey, kid, play me one more so I can get even."

Poor Mr. Fats. He was ripped off by one of the oldest con games going in the country today . . . the old demoralize - the - over - 30 - group - with - the - innocent - kid - routine.

I figured out a lone time ago that this country is being infiltrated by beings from another planet . . . small children who are really 149 years old and have the body of a six million dollar man. They're everywhere.

They sit around swanky tennis courts in a pair of $1.98 tennis shoes with the strings knotted, holding a tennis racket made in Nogales and sucking on an ice cube. When they are invited to play they squint and ask, "What do you call this thing again?"

The pros are amused and explain, "A tennis racket. And you take it out of the press before you play."

The kid's performance is stunning. He giggles as his pudgy little hands cannot hold two tennis balls at the same time, so he places one on the base line. He has to be told where to stand and his form is somewhere between Buchwald and a bullfighter with bad eyes.

After the warm-up, the personality of the kid changes. He scoops up the ball with the back of his foot, aces his opponent on every serve, runs around the court like a wood nymph and jumps the net to offer his condolences and asks for a towel.

It is roughly estimated that there are 275,000 of these sports midgets running around the country today. On ski slopes they challenge, "Bet you a dollar I can race you to the ambulance at the bottom of the saloon."

"That's slalom," grins the pigeon, shaking his head. "You're on."

There are no laws on the books to protect the unsuspecting over-30s. Those of you who have ever been hustled by a kid two feet tall into playing them at anything are asked to band together and keep them out of bowling alleys, pool halls, tennis courts, and ski slopes. If we need a reason, how about the profane language they hear . . . by the adults they beat?

Blood tells who isn't parent

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please give me some information on blood tests. Can a 74-year-old man take a blood test and prove if a 37-year-old girl is his or not? This is very important to me, so please, as soon as possible, give me your answer.

DEAR READER — Blood types can sometimes be used to prove who is not the parent. That in itself is fairly complicated, because we all have two genes that determine the blood type of any of our offsprings. For example, a person with type A blood may have an A gene and and O gene, or two A genes. The O gene is a weak gene, you might even think of it as not being a blood type. Hence the A gene is dominant, but the parent can transmit the weak O gene.

A person with type B blood could have two B genes or a B and O gene. Thus a type A (AO) and type B (BO) couple could have an offspring with type A blood with AO genes, type B blood with BO genes, type O blood with two O genes, or type AB blood with A and B genes. Each parent can give only one of his genes to the offspring, but that will allow for a wide variety if the parents are AO and BO.

Whenever a child is type O it is almost impossible to say anything about the parents except that neither parent can be type AB. Why? Because such a parent would have to transmit one gene, either A or B and that gene would be dominant if the other gene was O so such a child could not be type O. Type AB blood is quite rare, so this isn't all that helpful.

In general blood typing might help you prove that a person is not your offspring, particularly if you also know the mother's blood type. Otherwise it is of limited usefulness. To show you how limited it is, if the baby in question had type O blood either parent can be type A, B, or O. Since type O is the most common blood type, occuring in 47 per cent of the population, that makes it a bit difficult.

For more information on blood typing and parentage send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 6-4 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas, 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently you mentioned cream substitutes. I would like to know your opinion on powdered skim milk. We use it daily for drinking, on cereal and everything. Occasionally I buy 1 per cent fortified skim milk at the store, but my son prefers the powdered milk because it is sweeter. Is there too much sugar in the powdered milk?

DEAR READER — Either product is fine. The fortified skim milk which contains about 1 per cent fat is low enough in fat to be acceptable for almost any diet designed for low fat intake.

Both products contain a comparable amount of milk sugar, lactose. Unless you have lactose intolerance the amount of milk sugar will not be harmful in any way.

While I often recommend non-fat dry milk powder for cooking and as a low-fat product which is high in good protein, I would also hope the diet would include a variety of protein by including some lean meat, fish or poultry. A good balanced mixture of relatively low fat foods usually produces the best results.

DEBUT OF FORCING TWO BID

The forcing two bid with the bust two notrump response was invented by Theodore Lightner, Waldemar von Zedtwitz and Oswald Jacoby back in 1929. Here is a hand that led us to that invention.

Jacoby, who sat South, opened one spade. He hoped that he would get a second chance and he did when the unfortunate East player reopened with two clubs. Young Jacoby simply jumped to seven hearts.

The bid was spectacular and quite unsound, but it succeeded because North held four hearts and two spades. North actually held the heart queen, but all he needed was four hearts.

Experts used it for about 20 years and then started to get away from it because of two weaknesses. The first was that you used four bids to cover the few hands that warranted an opening force. The second, that the negative two notrump response tended to make the wrong hand declarer at notrump.

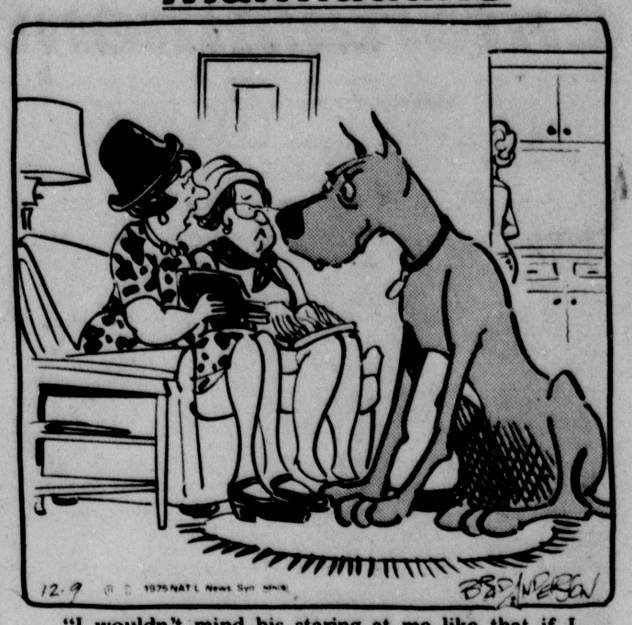

In the next articles we will show how the experts have found ways to handle forcing opening bids in better manner.

Ask the Jacobys

A Nebraska reader wants to know if many experts use a one club opening as a forcing bid.

The answer to this question is that a very small number do. Probably about 50 of the top thousand life masters, if you want to use that as your criterion.

Pomona to do 'Othello'

The Pomona College theater department will present "Othello" in Holmes Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday and Jan. 8-11. Tickets are $2.50, students $1.

The Shakespeare tragedy will be directed by guest director Jan Skotnicki, director of the Teatr Plock, in Plock, Poland. On his first visit to Pomona College last year, Skotnicki directed "Card Index."

The title role will be played by Isaiah Sanders, drama professor. English professor Steven Young will portray Iago, with students making up the rest of the cast.

Skotnicki says his "Othello" "takes into account the normal circumstances of college theater, not based on set or big money, but rather a performance that shows work being done with actors."

The play also sidesteps the traditional Baroque style with its lavish costumes and sets. The play is what the director terms "open scene" that does not hide behind costumes but brings the actors into sharp focus. Without lavish settings and costumes, the actors are called upon to give more of themselves to express the essence of the tragedy.

Reservations can be made at 626-8511, Ext. 3181.

ALTER EGOS — The Second City presentation of "Alterations While You Wait" stars, from left, Doug Steckler, Joseph O'Flaherty and Dick Biasucci. 'Die Meistersinger'

NYCO work gets ovation

By BOB WAUGH

The New York City Opera's production of "Die Meistersinger" in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Friday night was deservedly received with a standing ovation. No one could say it was perfect, but it was joyous and heart-rending and occasionally presented new insights to a work that seems so simple.

Much of the success was due Norman Bailey, for without a more than competent Hans Sachs the opera is certain to fail. Bailey's voice is full and precise, with a cut assuring the audience that the cobbler is not mrely jovially good. Also he built the character with restraint, as Wagner intended, slowly revealing how central he is. Too many Sachses know at the start how important they are.

An innovation by David Griffith was the view of David. Usually this part is minor comic relief, and its longest piece, "Der Meister Ton' und Leide," often cut. But Griffith made this description of singing rules completely charming, forming a contrast to Kothner's dry recital and Sachs' loving explanation. Indeed, this treatment suggested that the part illuminates Sachs as much as Walther.

The other singers were competent, especially the versatile Johanna Meier as Eva, making the quintet the glory and climax it ought to be. But John Alexander's Walther and David Rae Smith's Beckmesser were not strikingly conceived, and Smith botched the beginning of this serenade; he was funny but not convincing.

Full praise is in order for the two chorales; every line could be clearly, powerfully, and confidently distinguished. But the direction of the riot, though fun in itself, made so much stage noise that the complexity of the various choruses and the orchestra was lost. Something of the same thing happened in the intermezzo of the third act, with the help of some foot-shuffling in the audience. At times the tempo was not stately but slow.

Still, this was not a stolid "Meistersinger." The opera is unusual in Wagner's work, presenting no radical or extreme solutions, no fatal euphorias. It explicitly renounces the Liebestod. The NYCO's production thoroughly demonstrated this humanity.

They went thataway

Westerns ride off

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — There are no westerns on television. And there are very few feature films set in the old West being made today.

What happened? Why did the western ride off into the sunset?

The western was always a Hollywood staple. And, in the past, there were periods when there weren't many cowboy pictures being made. But, always, the wise Hollywood hands would say, "It's a cycle, they'll be back." And they came back.

Now, though, the whole climate seems to have changed. It doesn't look good for the western. There are no plans, as far as anyone knows, for a sagebrush series. And what few western movies are made do poorly at the box office.

The reason for westerns going thataway isn't easy to pinpoint. But the general consensus is that Hollywood, as always, is responding to a change in the public's taste and appetite in entertainment.

Frank Price, former producer of The Virginian and now president of Universal TV, agrees with that theory.

"It boils down to a consideration of the type of western and the audiences which tend to like them," Price says. "From a TV standpoint, the classic western has little appeal in urban areas and to the younger audience. Therefore, advertisers are just not interested in sponsoring them."

Television must look for the biggest numbers. If one type of show — such as westerns — makes huge segments of the public switch off their TV sets, obviously the TV moguls are going to move on to something else.

In the feature film arena, the same situation applies. The movie audience today, by and large, consists of younger people, in the 18-to-25-year-old bracket. Years ago, the younger people loved cowboy movies; that is no longer true.

Recent western pictures — Kirk Douglas' "Posse" and Richard Brooks' "Bite the Bullet" — tried to circumvent that by being offbeat. "Posse" switched the classic good-guy-bad-guy roles and "Bite the Bullet" was really a chase film set in the West. Still, they were not successes.

Louis L'Amour, today's top selling author whose 54 western novels have been the basis of 33 movies, blames Hollywood's producers for the dearth of westerns.

"The problem isn't with the audience," L'Amour says, "but with the state of mind of the Hollywood producer. They have a success with a disaster movie and, from then on, that's all they want to do, make disaster movies.

"After the success of "The Godfather,' I must have gotten ten calls from producers who wanted to know if I had a story about a Godfather-like character, set in the old West."

Curiously, whenever a John Wayne movie — a Wayne western — is shown on TV, it commands a high rating. And yet Wayne's latest movies have not done well at the box office.

"Wayne's westerns," says Price, "do well on TV — but not in New York and Los Angeles. Most advertisers want to reach those urban centers. They look at the Wayne figures and that turns them off sponsoring westerns on TV."

Price says that Universal has been trying to develop a western which would appeal to the urban audience. The studio felt it had succeeded with Alias Smith and Jones, but the show was only moderately successful. Price blames its time slot — opposite All In the Family and Flip Wilson — for that semi-fialure.

L'Amour thinks westerns will stage another comeback. It is his feeling that there are basic reasons for the long history of these pictures, and those basic reasons still prevail.

"First," he says, "I believe there is something in our national character, maybe even in our genes, that makes us want to read about that era and watch dramas about it. Our ancestors, a thousand years ago, lived next to other people in Asia. Our ancestors were the ones who packed up and moved west to Europe. Their neighbors didn't.

Our ancestors, a thousand years ago, lived next to other people in Asia. Our ancestors were the ones who packed up and moved west to Europe. Their neighbors didn't.

"Our ancestors continued to move west through Europe. Other people stayed put. Our ancestors got to the shores of the Atlantic.

Rematch bothers Ohio St.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rapping with Brian Baschnagel and John Sciarra you'd never guess that Ohio State had walloped UCLA 40-21 on Oct. 4 in a football game that really wasn't that close.

"They're a different team now," said Baschnagel, wingback for No. 1-ranked Ohio State. "Even though we scored a lot of points against them, I thought they were explosive enough to come back."

"I think we'll do better this time," said Sciarra, UCLA's All-American quarterback. "We're an improved team, especially defensively."

Ohio State and 11th-ranked UCLA will hook up again in the Rose Bowl but you won't get either side to say it will be another rout. In fact, Baschnagel has some qualms about the rematch.

"If I had any say, I'd rather not play the same team again," he said Monday during a reception for the National Football Foundation's scholar-athletes.

"I've played the same team twice in a season before, once in high school and once in junior high, and both times we won the first game and lost the second. I think a lot of players feel the same way I do about playing the same team again. You usually don't get a second chance and when you do, you try to make the most of it. I'd hate to think we'll let down at all, but it's a possibility."

But while Baschnagel thinks revenge will be a factor in UCLA's preparations, Sciarra feels Ohio State doesn't lack for incentive, either.

"They're the No. 1 team in the country and they deserve to be No. 1," he said. "Being this close to the national championship is all the incentive they need. They're very sound with good players at every position. They have a fine offense with probably the four best athletes in the country working together in their backfield of Archie Griffin, Pete Johnson, Cornelius Greene and Baschnagel. Not necessarily the four best athletes over-all, but the four best as a combination."

But that doesn't mean Sciarra holds the Buckeyes in awe.

"Our defense was green when we played them before," he said. "But anyone who saw our game against Southern Cal knows the defense won it for us. If we play mistake-free football we have a chance to beat them.

"And in that first game they weren't ranked No. 1 and I think we may have been looking ahead to Stanford the following week and the start of our conference season. That's what really counts because we knew if we won the conference we'd get a chance to play the Big Ten's best in the Rose Bowl."

Baschnagel watched the UCLA-Southern Cal game on TV and was impressed with the Bruins.

"We led them 28-7 at the half and it was amazing but I was still nervous," he recalled. "I thought UCLA was explosive enough to come back if our offense let down at all.

"The score wasn't indicative of the type of game it was. Their defense could have played better against us. They didn't seem sure of what they were doing and they seemed a little hesitant before hitting us.

"But watching their game with USC, they seemed to have more confidence in what they were doing. They seemed more aggressive. I think they're much improved and they going to give us problems."

Damien shouldn't be ashamed

It was a frustrating experience for the Damien High football team last Friday night, but neither the players nor Spartan head coach Dick Larson have anything to be ashamed of.

The Spartans were edged by Garden Grove 14-7 in overtime last Friday, thus ending their grid season in the CIF 3A quarterfinals. The game, obviously, could have gone either way but that's the way things are so often when teams reach the final rounds of the playoffs.

For the record, the only San Antonio League teams to ever reach the 3-A football finals were Claremont in 1964 (the Wolfpack lost to St. Francis 14-0) and Bonita in 1969 (South Pasadena beat the Bearcats 10-0). Damien was seeking to be the third SAL finalist in the 12-year history of the SAL but a little thing called luck caught up with the Spartans Friday.

Despite outgaining and out-first downing Garden Grove, it seemed like the Spartans could do nothing right last week. Penalties, interceptions, missed tackles all hurt Damien, and in a game the Spartans should have won in regulation time the visitors from Garden Grove came away with by pushing across a touchdown in the special four-play overtime period.

Actually, the Spartans should not feel too badly. Another highly-regarded 3-A squad, Santa Ana Valley, also suffered an upset last Friday, as Colton prevailed 19-14.

Team accepted loss

"I guess the kids and myself have accepted Friday's loss by now," commented Damien coach Larson, "but its kind of rough.

"I felt after we had beaten Lompoc a couple weeks ago we had the momentum and the talent to reach at least the semifinals, but that's the way things go. We did not play as well as we are capable of against Garden Grove, and they scored when the pressure was on, so that's that. I guess we will have to go at 'em again next year."

Of the four teams left in the 3-A playoffs at this point, Larson feels that South Pasadena is probably the toughest. South Pas cruised past Chino 28-3 two weeks back and beat a touted La Serna team 31-21 last week, thus advancing to the semifinals.

Other than last week's loss, Larson has no regrets on his team's 10-2 season, one of the best in the school's history.

"Our guys had fun this year, and that's the most important thing. This was a very unselfish ball club and it was a pleasure coaching them.

"Now, I'm just going to let the players relax and try to forget about football for a while. There will be time enough for that in the spring."

Damien's defeat finished up the local prep grid season, and a most enjoyable one it was for this writer. Congratulations must go out to Larson and his team for a fine season, as well as to Chino, Walnut, Bonita, Upland, Ontario Christian and American Christian. All those squads made the CIF playoffs, and, win or lose, that's an accomplishment to be proud of.

Big soccer match

With football moving out of the picture, the outdoor sport which now moves into focus is soccer.

The interest in the local prep soccer scene continues to climb, and a good indication of that interest should be coming up this Friday night.

On that date Claremont High's soccer squad will play old rival South Torrance at Pomona College. South Torrance has knocked the Wolfpack out of the CIF title picture in each of the last three years, but Friday's contest will be the first time the two teams have met with Claremont acting as host team.

Considering the fine caliber of soccer both teams have traditionally displayed, and the rivalry which has built up between the two schools, you can bet that Pomona College's Alumni Field will be packed by Friday's 7:30 p.m. kickoff time.

Hot tip of the week would be to get there early Friday evening if you want a seat. It figures to be the best show in town for a long time to come for all you soccer buffs.

Rebounds give win to Damien

By TIM CLARK
PB-Correspondent

Damien High rolled to a 50-40 victory at San Dimas High Monday night, after allowing the host Saints to tie the contest at 36-36 in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter.

It was an unimpressive win for Coach Bill Roberts and his Spartans.

Roberts' men could only connect on 37 per cent of their field goal attempts, although attempting 15 more than San Dimas (61-46). The Saints, however, only dropped in 17 buckets for 36 per cent.

The Spartans were not to be outdone from the free throw line, accumulating a measely 21 per cent from the charity stripe. San Dimas sunk six of 10 free throws.

Each unit committed 20 turnovers apiece, and were almost equal in total assists (12-11 in favor of the Saints). The difference of the ball game, of course, was the result of the battle of the backboards.

Damien blew the Saints away underneath the buckets, racking up 53 rebounds while allowing the hosts a mere 26. (The Spartans really went at it in the second half, hauling in 32 caroms to the Saints 11).

Mike Wetenkamp and Bill Duffy led the Damien assault with 12 boards apiece, followed by Kolodge and Todd Bell with 11 and 10, respectively.

Liberty Bowl is excited

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An official of the Liberty Bowl football classic says the Dec. 22 matchup of Texas A&M and Southern California will be "the most prestigious game we have ever had."

"Southern Cal is the defending national champion and A&M brings the best record (10-1) we've ever had," said A. F. "Bud" Dudley, founder and executive director of the bowl.

Raiders defense too tough

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' defense rose to the occasion by knocking down Denver quarterbacks John Hufnagel and Steve Ramsey all night.

"Ten sacks! That's what makes my job easy—when the line is putting pressure on the quarterbacks," said rookie safety Charles Phillips, who intercepted three passes in the Raiders' 17-10 victory over the Broncos in a nationally televised game.

Otis Sistrunk, from his defensive tackle position, led the charge on the Denver passers. He took part in five of the sacks which took some heat off the Oakland offense and helped the playoff-bound Raiders win their seventh straight National Football League game.

"Our defense always rises to the occasion," Phillips added. "But our offense is so potent that it was just a matter of time until we scored."

The time seemed interminable to Oakland fans, who did some booing during the 28-minute wait.

The normally explosive offense run by quarterback Ken Stabler seemed to be working with a silencer. Denver was ahead 3-0 on Jim Turner's 18-yard field goal which followed an Oakland fumble in the first period.

"They took almost everything away from us," admitted Stabler, who completed just two of his first nine passes and suffered two interceptions. Oakland's offensive efforts had accounted for only 30 yards by late in the second quarter.

But Horace Jones then sacked Hufnagel, making his first NFL start, at the Denver 21-yard line and the Raiders drove 44 yards after taking a short punt. Fred Biletnikoff shook loose to catch passes which gained 15 and 16 yards and Harold Hart ran two yards for the touchdown which sent Oakland ahead.

In the third quarter, after Phillips' third interception against Hufnagel, the Raiders drove 48 yards for another touchdown, scored by Pete Banaszak on a one-yard run. That was about it offensively.

Denver outgained Oakland by 76 yards, 254 to 178, despite the 74 yards subtracted from the Broncos' total by the 10 sacks.

"Still, Oakland keeps on winning, and you can't knock success," said Broncos' Coach John Ralston, whose team is 5-7 and aiming only for the runnerup spot behind the Raiders, 10-2, in the American Conference West.

Ramsey threw a 33-yard pass to Haven Moses to set up Fran Lynch's five-yard touchdown run in the final period and Denver cut the Oakland lead to 14-10.

Two killing pass interference calls against cornerback Louis Wright then hit Denver's defense, setting up George Blanda's 18-yard field goal with 2:21 left in the game.

"I thought (Ted) Kwalick grabbed me. When I saw the flag I thought, 'Good, he got caught,' " said Wright, who reacted in disbelief when the first penalty was called against him rather than the Oakland receiver.

The officials moved the ball 61 of the 80 yards on the drive which led to the field goal. When Denver got the ball back for a final time, Ramsey went down under linebacker Gerald Irons and Sistrunk on successive pass attempts.

"They were all over us," said Ralston.

The Raiders scored 216 points over the first six games of their winning streak, never fewer than 25 in a game, and the home fans were expecting more of the same—especially after the 37-34 overtime victory over Atlanta a week earlier.

"I guess the only way you can keep them happy is to go out there and complete every pass," said Stabler. "That's hard to do."

The victory over Atlanta assured the Raiders of their fourth consecutive AFC West title and of a spot in the playoffs, and Stabler said Monday night, "Maybe there was a certain letdown."

He spoke only for the offense.

"Last week, the defense let down and the offense had a good game. This evens things out," said defensive end Horace Jones, who was in on three sacks.

Biletnikoff had five of the the Raiders' seven pass receptions, increasing his career total to 490. The 489th catch, setting up the second touchdown, moved the 12-year veteran ahead of former Green Bay Packers great Don Hutson on the NFL's all-time list of receivers.

The Broncos, whose injury list is headed by last year's AFC rushing champion Otis Armstrong, added offensive guard Carl Schaukowitch and tight end Boyd Brown to it. Both suffered broken legs.

"They're falling left and right," said Ralston. "We've got 36 healthy players left."

La Verne ready for familiar foe

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne College returns to the basketball wars tonight fresh from winning the consolation championship at Redlands.

The Leopards (3-2) have a rematch with L.A. Baptist in the Supertent tonight (8 p.m.). Meanwhile, Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd have tough road games.

The Sagehens (1-3) travel to Riverside to play Redlands Tournament Champion Cal Baptist. The undefeated Lancers (6-0) are averaging 108 points a game.

C-M is at Southern California College in Costa Mesa. The Stags (1-2) will be trying to get back to the .500 level. The win, 72-68, came over Pacific Christian in the Redlands tourney. The losses, also at Redlands, were at the hands of Azusa Pacific (73-58) and La Verne (69-50).

La Verne will be trying to equal or better the score of their first meeting with L.A. Baptist. In the Redlands Tournament, the Leopards outscored the Mustangs, 85-81.

Trailing by as many as 14 points, 74-60 with nine minutes left in the second half, the Leos charged back to tie the game, 76-76 in a 16-2 spurt. The Mustangs soared out in front again, 81-76.

Dwight Washington's two baskets cut the gap to 81-80, L.A. Baptist went into a four corner stall, the formation that had caused the Leopards considerable trouble in the Cal Poly game.

But Washington knocked the ball away and was fouled by Tom Porsley with one second left. Porsley was charged with two technical fouls.

Washington hit all three free throws to give the Leos an 84-81 lead and the ball game.

If tonight's game is half as thrilling, it'll be a good one.

Up at Riverside, Pomona-Pitzer will try and continue to play aggressively but cut down on fouls.

"We must be leading the district in fouls," said coach Les Nagler. "We have to force turnovers because we don't have rebounding power and we're getting caught.

"In every game so far, we've been charged with a lot more personal fouls than our opponents. Our objective is to eliminate a great deal of the fouling. But I don't think we can hold off on aggressive play."

The Sagehens notched their only win of the season, 83-58 over LIFE Bible last Wednesday, but lost to Point Loma, 62-46 Saturday.

"We had a cold shooting night against Point Loma," Nagler said. "In fact I've been disappointed overall in our outside shooting so far. However Bill Harris has started to come on and Scott Pease is capable of hitting from the outside."

The 'Hens were also buoyed by the return of guard Garry Stewart last week.

Stewart, still recovering from the effects of a whiplash injury suffered in an auto accident last spring, played some in both games last week.

Tournament play begins

Four games are on tap tonight in opening round action of the 16th Annual Upland-Montclair High School Basketball Tournament.

Alta Loma and Nogales square off at 6:30 p.m. this evening at the Upland High gym, while Ontario and Upland tangle in the 8 p.m. clash on the Highlanders' court.

Over at the Montclair gym, Duarte and LaPuente Wilson meet at 6:30 p.m. and Bonita and Montclair tangle at 8 p.m.

Games earlier today saw Claremont and Northview open tourney play with a 3:15 p.m. game at Upland. Charter Oak and Ganesha met at 4:45 p.m. at Upland, while in the 4:45 p.m. outing at Montclair Azusa played Pomona.

Garey High had a bye for the opening round. The Vikings, defending tourney champs, will be in action Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. vs. the winner of the Azusa-Pomona contest.

Tourney finals are slated for Friday at the Upland gym.

Mounties greet Riverside tonight

Mt. San Antonio College's basketball team will see a new face tonight when the Mounties host old rival Riverside City College in a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

For the first time in years, MSAC Coach Gene Victor won't be battling Bill Millikan in a Mountie-RCC contest. Millikan is now coaching at Saddleback College with Dave Waxman, former San Jose State assistant, taking over at Riverside.

MSAC will risk its 5-0 season record against the defending Mission Conference champions. Riverside is 4-2 after losing to Golden West, 115-66, in the finals of the Moorpark Tournament.

Riverside's top players are guards Michael Linden and Derrick Melven.

MSAC, which is shooting 50 per cent from the floor this season, hopes to continue where it left off in last Saturday's 107-60 win over Chaffey. The Mounties shot 64 per cent in the game and outscored Chaffey by 32 points in the second half.

Victor feels the next three games are important tests for his undefeated team. MSAC visits East Los Angeles Friday and meets Pasadena in the first game of the Chaffey Tournament on Dec. 17.

"I don't like to look ahead too much but these three games should be a good test for us," Victor said.

MSAC had six players score in double figures against Chaffey and three grab more than 10 rebounds.

The scoring is balanced with Angel Santiago leading the way with a 15.0 average followed by Tom Pokorski (14.8) and Duaine Harding (14.0).

In other junior college basketball action, Chaffey (0-5) is in Hawaii against Hilo College for a pair of games while Citrus (2-3) hosts Mission Wednesday night.

Broncs lose by 11 to Texas

Poly faces rated Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — After two 11-point defeats in Texas, Cal Poly's touring basketball team will really go into the big time here tonight against the nation's sixth-ranked team.

The Broncos have the task of facing Louisville, the team which placed third in last year's NCAA championships, in a 6 p.m. (PST) tipoff at Freedom Hall.

Poly, now 2-3 for the season, suffered a 77-66 setback to Texas Monday night at Austin in a game similar to Saturday's 74-63 defeat at Houston.

Again, the Broncos held the home team tight. Texas, leading by five (56-51) with nine minutes to go, pulled away at that point to take its third victory in four games.

Texas went ahead for good in the final two minutes of the first half when it outscored Poly, 8-2, to increase a 36-35 lead to 44-37 at the intermission.

Poly shot better Monday night hitting on 51 per cent in the first half but only 38 per cent in the second. For the game, the Broncs made 46 per cent while Texas hit on 51 per cent.

The Californians outrebounded the Longhorns, 39-36, with Paul Newton grabbing 14 to lead both teams.

Forward Jack Gamulin led Poly in scoring with 21 points in making nine of 16 field goals. Guard Joe Sills cooled off from his Houston performance but still scored 20 on a 10-for-23 shooting performance.

Guard Dan Krueger paced Texas with 28 points followed by John Moore with 19 and Ed Johnson's 16.

x-clinched division title

Division winners are determined by best over-all record. In case of ties, winner is determined by best head-to-head record between tied teams, then by records of teams against other teams in the same division, then against teams in the same conference. In the event a tie still exists, it is broken on the basis of total points scored by both teams in their two games.

Sites for Dec. 27-28 first-round conference playoff games are determined by over-all records, with the best divisional winner in each conference hosting that conference's wild-card team and the second-best winner hosting the third-best winner unless the wild-card team and top winner are from the same division. In that case, the best winner hosts the third-best winner and the second-best winner hosts the wild-card team.

Indiana shows its power

By Associated Press

Florida State Coach Hugh Durham thinks he knows how to beat top-ranked Indiana. Getting it done, however, is another matter.

"It's important to get off to a good start," Durham explained. "Then there are two ways to play against Indiana—either run at them or go into a freeze."

So how come Indiana whipped Durham's Seminoles 83-59 Monday night, at one point leading by a whopping 38 points?

"We didn't get that good start," Durham said. "They probably have the best defense in the country. We couldn't attack their set defense, so we tried to run. We had the shots— but didn't hit them."

Then, appraising the powerful Hoosiers, he added, "Indiana has so much talent and is so well coached, they're not going to have many upsets. I thought Indiana had a better team last year, but I learned first-hand just how good Indiana really is now."

Eight other members of the AP's Top Twenty also played Monday night, and most of them came up winners.

No. 2 Maryland romped to a 122-82 decision over Boston U., No. 4 North Carolina pulled away in the second half and beat No. 14 Kentucky 90-77, No. 8 Notre Dame outlasted Kansas 72-64, No. 9 Cincinnati tripped Biscayne 74-52, Kansas State upset No. 10 Arizona 71-61, No. 11 Alabama defeated Middle Tennessee 76-62 and No. 20 Missouri beat Rice 94-75.

Scott May scored 24 points and Kent Benson added 22 to lead the Indiana assault. Hoosiers Coach Bobby Knight used reserves for much of the onesided game.

Indiana, foiling Durham's strategy, out-scored the Seminoles 14-2 at the outset. It was 47-20 at the half and then 79-41 before Knight rested his starters for good.

Despite the easy win, Knight was still not totally satisfied as his club, 2-0, prepped for a big game against eighth-ranked Notre Dame Thursday night.

"In the first half we tried to go out and establish ourselves defensively, but we got careless," he said. "We're going to have to spend a lot of time trying to stop committing errors."

Maryland, 4-0, led by just 52-44 at halftime but buried BU with a second-half blitz. John Lucas' 22 points and Steve Sheppard's 21 were high for the Terps, who had seven players in double figures.

Mitch Kupchak scored 24 points and Walter Davis added 19 to lead North Carolina past Kentucky.

"It was an aggressive game, like the NBA," said Carolina Coach Dean Smith of the contest which was marked by 64 personal fouls. "Kupchak did a tremendous job in the second half. Nobody's going to intimidate him."

The game was tied 42-42 at the half, but the rest belonged to the Tar Heels. North Carolina hit 18 of 29 field goal attempts during the second half while Kentucky hit only 11 of 35.

All-American Adrian Dantley' 27 points led Notre Dame past Kansas. The Irish, 4-0, trailed by four at the half but wore down the Jayhawks on the shooting of Dantley and Don Williams, who had 16 points.

Bob Miller, Cincinnati's sophomore center, scored 19 points and took down 10 rebounds as the Bearcats, 5-0, coasted past Biscayne.

Kansas State, 3-2, made a bid to climb back into the top 20 by upsetting previously unbeaten Arizona, 4-1. Mike Evans scored 11 consecutive points in a 2½-minute span of the second half to build a nine-point lead for Kansas State, and Arizona never recovered.

USC's title no surprise

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Marv Safford of USC and Steven Deering of Cal Baptist were named Players of the Week by the Southern California Football Writers at their weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Roger Young Auditorium.

Safford, a 6-2 junior guard, scored 46 points in two games in the Vanderbilt Invitational last week. That earned him MVP honors as the Trojans defeated host Vanderbilt and Kansas St. to win the championship.

Deering, a 6-6 senior forward, scored 71 points in three games and grabbed 35 rebounds as Cal Baptist won the Redlands Invitational.

The writers are a small, struggling group this year. UCLA has refused to participate and that leaves USC's Bob Boyd as the only major attraction.

The only other coaches present were Gary Colson of Pepperdine and Dave Benaderet of Loyola.

At that, the ratio of coaches to writers was about one to one.

Although Southern Cal was a surprise winner, Boyd was not among those admitting any surprise.

"It wasn't any surprise," he said in mock indignation. "Not any surprise at all."

Then he turned serious.

"What's most gratifying about winning the tournament," he continued, is that we beat two very good teams. Our players realize they were legitimate national powers."

Boyd lauded Safford and forward Bob Trowbridge who also made the all-tournament team.

"Before the tourney, I think Marv Safford would have been surprised to know he would be voted most valuable player.

"I have a feeling Bob Trowbridge is one of the best forward defenders in the country. He played very well the first night against Vanderbilt then did rather poorly in comparison in the first half Saturday night against Kansas St. But he put together a good second half."

This week the Trojans host Oral Roberts Friday night and Illinois Saturday night. Using Boyd's quick-passing offense that frees attackers for open, high percentage shots, the Trojans are shooting the 52.5 percent as a team.

"The percentage is good, but we should take more shots," said Boyd. Also I would like to see more defense but fewer fouls. We're averaging 20 a game. That's too many. I'd like to see 17 or less."

Oral Roberts, Friday night's opponent, returns three starters from a team that went 20-8 this year. Under new coach Lou Henson (who replaced Gene Bartow), the Illini are 5-0 at this time despite being picked for last place in the Big Ten after going 8-18 last year.

"I think Illinois will probably be 6-0 by the time they get here," Boyd opined.

Illinois, at last report, had three starters in double figures. They are 6-9 sophomore forward Rich Adams (18.3 average), 6-4 senior guard Nate Williams (14.6) and 6-6 senior guard Otho Tucker (11.7).

For USC, Safford is averaging 20.5 points a game and shooting 66.7 percent. Earl Evans, who starts at guard but also plays forward, is averaging 17.5 and shooting 60 percent. Trowbridge is averaging 14.3 and shooting 59.1 percent.

Poly faces Louisville

There's no question Poly faces its toughest opponent in its basketball history here tonight.

Louisville, coached by former UCLA assistant Denny Crum, has two starters and several key reserves back from the team which extended UCLA all the way in the national semifinals last year before losing, 75-74.

Crum, who has an 100-22 coaching record in his five years at UL, feels this year's team may be better thanks to some good recruits.

"We're working for the national championship," Crum said about his Cardinals. "I don't think we can challenge Indiana yet, but by March I hope we can. Potentially we can do better than last year. We have more talent. This is a more exciting team because we can do some things none of my other Louisville teams could do."

Louisville is 2-0 thus far this season with wins over Memphis State, 79-74, on the road and Murray State, 78-59, at home.

Crum normally will open with returning starters Wesley Cox (6-5) at forward and guard Phillip Bond (6-2). Also back from last year are center Ricky Gallon (6-11) and guard Rick Wilson (6-4). The top newcomer is freshman forward Larry Williams (6-7), a prep star from Chicago.

Sports briefs

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Aeros' star Gordie Howe will sit out tonight's World Hockey Association game against Cincinnati after being suspended by WHA officials for two games and fined $1,000.

Howe and goalie teammate Ron Grahame were suspended indefinitely last Saturday after both received game misconduct penalties from referee Don Asselstine in a 5-4 victory over Winnpeg.

Grahame charged Asselstine with his stick raised over his head after Asselstine allowed a Winnipeg goal after the goal light did not go on. Howe bumped Aselstine against the rail after being called for highsticking.

Grahame was suspended one game, last Saturday's loss to Phoenix, and fined $150. Howe was fined an additional $850 and won't be able to play until Friday's game against Indianapolis.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association, acting upon the request of U.S. District Court Judge Robert Carter, has agreed to postpone indefinitely its special draft of five American Basketball Association players.

The draft of five ABA players, including the coveted Moses Malone, had been scheduled for today.

But the NBA agreed to call it off after Edwin McAmis, attorney for the ABA Players Association, began litigation Monday asking for a restraining order against the draft. Judge Carter then asked that the draft be postponed, and the NBA agreed.

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Jim Wacker, head football coach at Texas Lutheran College, was named head coach at North Dakota State University Tuesday.

Wacker succeeds Ev Kjelbertson who resigned prior to the end of the 1975 season. North Dakota State finished with a 2-7 record, their first losing record in 12 years.

Wacker has been head coach at Texas Lutheran for the past five seasons and guided the Bulldogs to NAIA Division II titles in 1974 and 1975.

The Bulldogs were 11-0 in 1974 and 11-1 in 1975, including a 34-8 title victory over California Lutheran.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Don McMahon, a veteran of 18 major league seasons as a pitcher, was named pitching coach of the Minnesota Twins today by new Manager Gene Mauch.

McMahon, 45, had been pitching coach the past three years for the San Francisco Giants and was dismissed recently along with Manager Wes Westrum and the entire Gaints' coaching staff.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Surgeons at Temple University Hospital operated on Philadelphia 76ers' forward Billy Cunningham Monday to remove a torn cartilage in his left knee but were unable to repair a torn ligament.

Dr. Joseph Torg, orthopedic surgeon for the National Basketball Association team, said Cunningham "may be hampered a bit" in the future because of the "irreparably torn anterior cruciate ligament," a stabilizing structure of the knee.

He said the torn ligament would probably mend "with rehabilitation."

Cunningham, who injured his knee in last Friday's game against the New York Knicks, was reported in good condition and resting comfortably.

Cunningham, 31, had started every game this season for the 76ers, who are leading the Atlantic Division with a 15-6 record. He was averaging 13.7 points a game. He is not expected to play again this season, the 76ers said.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The East squad for the 51st Shrine East-West football game was completed Monday with the addition of eight players, including All-American defensive back Chet Moeller of Navy.

The game is scheduled Jan. 3 at Stanford Stadium.

The others added to the East team were defensive backs Shafer Suggs of Ball State and Tom Marvasco of Cincinnati, linebacker Ray Preston of Syracuse, wide receivers Gary Fencik of Yale and Mike Green of Ohio University, and centers Steve Suder of Bowling Green and Don Macek of Boston College.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association have traded veteran guard Matt Guokas to the Kansas City Kings in exchange for a third-round draft choice in 1976 and a second-round selection in 1977.

The trade Monday trimmed the Bulls' roster to 11 players, making room for the reactivation of guard Jerry Sloan.

Guokas, 31, played in 18 games this season, averaging 4.5 points.

BOSTON (AP) — Star defenseman Bobby Orr has been released from the hospital after undergoing surgery for an injured knee, the Boston Bruins said Monday.

The National Hockey League veteran underwent his operation at Massachusetts General Hospital on Nov. 29 for removal of torn cartilage on the outside of his left knee.

A spokesman said he was expected to rejoin the club Feb. 1.

SWAPPING UNIFORMS — Third baseman Ken Reitz of St. Louis (L) has been traded to San Francisco for pitcher Pete Falcone (R) in the second deal of the major league baseball meetings.

Cards swap Reitz for Pete Falcone

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have turned third base over to hardhitting minor leaguer Hector Cruz by sending Ken Reitz to the San Francisco Giants for lefty pitcher Pete Falcone.

"He (Cruz) has been the best ballplayer in the minor leagues the past two years," Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst said Monday in announcing the trade at baseball's winter meetings.

"The Giants have needed a third baseman for a number of years and Reitz is a good ballplayer," Schoendienst added.

The Cardinals are expecting big things from Cruz, based on the opinion of Ken Boyer, manager of their Tulsa farm club.

"Boyer is very high on Cruz," said Bing Devine, general manager of the Cards.

Cruz, who teamed with his brothers, Tommy and Jose, in the St. Louis outfield when called up late in the 1973 season, was named the Most Valuable Player in the American Association last season. He clubbed Class AAA pitching for 29 home runs, 116 runs batted in and a .306 average.

The trade is subject to approval by the National League because of the impending sale of the Giants.

"I think the trade is good for both clubs," Schoendienst said.

Reitz said, "I thought there was maybe one chance in 100 that I'd be traded but I figured that if I were it would be to Pittsburgh. I thought I had some pretty good years in St. Louis. I thought they'd stick with me a couple of more years at least."

Reitz, 24, gives the Giants the league's Gold Glove winner of 1975. He hit .269 with five home runs and 63 runs batted in last season after a .235 rookie year in 1973 and a .271 campaign in 1974.

"We didn't have any good left-hand pitching prospects in the minor leagues," explained Schoendienst. "We hope to start Falcone, that's what we acquired him for."

Falcone, 22, who was 12-11 with an earned run average of 4.17 as a rookie in 1975, joins right-handers Lynn McGlothen, Bob Forsch, John Denny and Harry Rasmussen as starting candidates along with southpaw John Curtis.

A draft session earlier Monday found only five clubs willing to part with $25,000 to grab minor league talent.

The Detroit Tigers, drafting first, took 22-year-old righthanded pitcher Bruce Taylor from the Cincinnati Reds' Indianapolis farm club of the American Association.

"He's a submarine-baller and has a good shot at making the club," said Tiger Manager Ralph Houk. Taylor was 8-1 with a 2.22 ERA for Indianapolis last season.

Others picked were righthanded pitcher Gilbert Rondon by the Houston Astros, left-handed pitcher Luis Quintana by the Atlanta Braves, outfielder-first baseman Ed Kurpiel by the California Angels and first baseman - outfielder - designated hitter Tom Robson by the New York Yankees.

Quintana, 26, was 3-2 with a 5.20 ERA as a left-handed relief specialist last season for the Angels' Salt Lake City farm club. He was 0-2 with a 6.43 ERA in four games with the Angels.

Rondon, 22, was 6-1 with a 2.63 ERA for the Chicago Cubs' Salinas farm club in the Class A California League and 4-1 with a 5.87 ERA for El Paso of the Class AA Texas League.

Kurpiel, 21, hit .287 with 11 home runs and 57 runs batted in for the Cubs Evansville team.

Robson, who will be 30 next month, batted .320, hit 13 homers and drove in 57 runs in 87 games with the Texas Rangers' Pacific Coast League Spokane farm club last season. He appeared in 17 games with the Rangers, batting .200 with no homers and two RBI.

Meanwhile, organized baseball's official rules committee made the designated hitter rule an official playing rule Monday, optional for use by all major and minor league clubs.

All three National League committee members voted against the rule, used by the American League as an experimental measure the past two years. They were outvoted by three American League and three minor league officials.

The action does not affect a pending AL proposal to use the DH in World Series, All-Star and exhibition games at all parks.

Baseball brass resumed their meetings today still waiting for the sale of the Giants to resolve the San Francisco Bay Area problem.

NFL takes a look at instant replays

By Associated Press

With referees under fire for controversial, game-deciding calls that dampened one team's playoff hopes and helped kill the chances of another, National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle is looking more seriously at the use of instant replays.

Two weeks ago, the Washington Redskins saw a sure victory over St. Louis turn into a tie—and eventually into a sudden-death overtime loss—when the Cardinals got a disputed touchdown on a fourth-down play in the final seconds of the fourth period.

That play—in which Mel Gray caught the ball but was stripped of it before his feet touched the end zone turf— spurred renewed demands by Washington Coach George Allen that each game have an additional official, one with instant replay facilities to review questionable calls.

On Sunday, Buffalo was knocked out of the playoff picture, losing 31-21 to Miami. The Bills' chances of beating the Dolphins were hurt not only by Don Strock's two touchdown passes and one scoring run but by a call by head linesman Jerry Bergman on an apparent fumble by Miami's Mercury Morris.

The play was ruled no fumble—and when Buffalo's Pat Toomay hit Bergman as he tried to recover the ball, the official hit the Bills' defensive end with a 15-yard penalty.

Rozelle, asked about the possible use of cameras to settle the controversies over such calls as these, said: "If there is a practical way, if the mechanics can be resolved, we are not opposed to it."

He said he will ask the league's Competition Committee to study the feasibility of instant-replay use and report to the league at its annual meeting next March in Coronado, Calif.

Rozelle also said the use of instant replay had never seriously been considered by the NFL, although it has been discussed briefly. Among the problems with using it, he said, are the following:

—"You would have to see the play from many angles, meaning you would need several camera positions."

—"We'd probably have to install our own equipment and we would probably need 10 to 12 cameras in each stadium."

—"We would have to decide how many times the device could be used in a game, whether it would cost a team a time out and who would study the replays and where he would be located."

—"We would have to consider the time element—how long it would take to look at a sufficient number of camera angles to be satisified you had accurately seen play."

And, Rozelle said, cost factors of installing such a system and a study of whether all NFL stadiums would have enough camera positions available would have to be considered.

He said he believed it would be very difficult to operate such a system on the field during a game. The alternative, he said, would be to locate an official in the stadium and give him access to replays from a number of cameras.

When a disputed play arose, the officials on the field could consult with the man in the stadium, who would view the replays and then give the men on the field his opinion.

"We're not saying it's impossible," Rozelle said. "But there are a lot of things to be considered. What we want to do is investigate them and then we'll see what can be done."

In Sunday's game, Buffalo had fought back from a 21-0 deficit and trailed 24-21 in the fourth quarter. On second down, Morris appeared to fumble at the Miami 28 and Buffalo recovered. But Bergman ruled that the whistle had blown before the fumble, then he assessed the penalty against Toomay on the grounds that he had elbowed him.

Ralph Wilson, owner of the Bills, said Bergman "should be fired from the job and never allowed to work another game...It was a rotten call that cost our team a chance for the Super Bowl. I will not again send my team out to play a game that he's working."

Wilson said he would appeal the game, but a league official said a judgement call by an official cannot be appealed and that the result stands.

Lawrence wins race

John Lawrence of Mt. San Antonio College won the Glendale December Decathlon Saturday and the Mounties' Todd Kaberline finished seventh.

Lawrence, runnerup in the state decathlon championship last year, scored a lifetime best 6,562 points in winning.

Dan Ditelberg of Hancock was second (6,461), Mike Grein of Palomar third (6,115); Tom Harris, Canyon, fourth (6,049); Steve LaRusch, Glendale fifth (5,911); Bill Jenkins, Golden West sixth (5,841) and Kaberline, seventh with 5,269 points

So far, we've learned that the meter is the basic unit of length in the metric system, while the gram is the basic unit of weight (mass).

The basic metric unit for volume (space occupied) is the liter. It is used to measure liquids, as well as for measuring such dry substance as vegetables and grain. It is defined as a cube that is exactly one decimeter (a tenth of a meter) on each side.

In simpler terms, a liter is a little larger than the customary liquid quart. It makes about one quart plus ¼ cup (about 1.06 quarts).

Like the meter and the gram, the liter is divided and multiplied by 10, 100, 1,000, and other powers of 10.

The same Latin and Greek prefixes used to indicate the smaller and larger units of the meter and the gram are also used with the liter: 10 milliliters (ml) make a centiliter, 10 centiliters (cl) make a deciliter (dl), 10 liters make 1 dekaliter (dl) and so on, just as with the other metric units.
